POLITICAL REGISTER COBBETT'S

Vol. 81.-No. 9.]

LONDON, SATURDAY, August 31st, 1833.

[Price 1s. 2d.

TO THE

HON. JOHN STUART WORTLEY.

Sir, - In Clarosing to elect of the see ya upon yourself perils of that profession; and, if it should be found that your productions merit ridicule and contempt, you will not, I hope, complain, and entertain the opinion that the epithet "honourable," put before your name, ought to be any protection to you against the effects of that sentence which common sense and truth shall pronounce upon your labours. You have published a pamphlet, entitled, "A Brief Inquiry into the True " Award of an Equitable Adjustment " between the Nation and its Creditors." I have read this pamphlet, the object of which is, to show that the industrious part of the nation have not yet paid the fundholders enough, and that it pays them too little now! Some people would call you mad, others would put before your name epithets very different from that which you have chosen to put there: I shall do neither; but shall content myself with showing, that you are, as to these matters, a person of rare simplicity, and of profound ignorance. When I was a boy, a huntsman, named George Bradley, who was huntsman to Mr. SHITHER, of HALE, very wantonly gave me a cut with his whip, because jumped in amongst the dogs, pulled a hare from them, and got her scut, upon a little common, called SEAL common, Bear WAVERLY Abbey. I was only about eight years old; but my mind was so strongly imbued with the principles of natural justice, that I did not rest satisfied with the mere calling of names, of which, however, I gave Mr. GEORGE BRADLEY & plenty. I sought to inflict a just punishment upon him; and, as I had not the means of proceeding by force, I proceeded by cunning in the manner that I am presently going to describe. I had not then read the Bible, much less had I read GROTIUS and PUF-FENDORF: I, therefore, did not know, that God and man had declared, that it was laudable to combat tyranny by the one id id mesht, reason BRADLEY had been guilty of tyranny towards me; and the native resources of my mind, together with my resolution, made me inflict justice on him in the following manner.

Hounds (hare-hounds at least) will follow the trail of a red-herring as eagerly as that of a hare, and rather more so, the scent being stronger and more unbroken. I waited till BRADLEY and his pack were trailing for a hare in the neighbourhood of that same Seal common. They were pretty sure to find in the space of half-an-hour, and the hare was pretty sure to go up the common and over the hill to the south. placed myself ready with a red-herring at the end of a string, in a dry field, and near a hard path, along which, or near to which, I was pretty sure the hare would go. I waited a long while; the sun was getting high; the scent bad; but, by-and-by, I heard the view-halloo and full cry. -I squatted down in the fern, and my heart bounded with the prospect of inflicting justice, when I saw my lady come skipping by, going off towards Pepper-harrow; that is to say, to the south. In a moment, I clapped down my herring, went off at a right angle towards the west, climbed up & steep bank very soon, where the horse men, such as they were, could not folpart of the common that I could find, zill I got to the pales of Moor PARK, over which I went, there being holes at the bottom for the letting in of the hares. That part of the park was covered with short heath; and I gave some twirls about to amuse Mr. BRADLEY for half-an-hour. Then off I went, and down a hauger at last, to the bottom of which no horseman could get without riding round a quarter of a mile. At the bottom of the hauger was an alder-moor, in a swamp. There my herring ceased to perform its service. The river is pretty rapid: I tossed it in, that it might go back to the sea, and relate to its brethren the exploits of the land. I washed my hands in the water of the moor; and took a turn, and stood at the top of the hauger to witness the winding-up of the day's sport, which terminated a little before dusk in one of the dark days of November. After overrunning the scent a hundred times; after an hour's puzzling in the dry-field, after all the doubles and all the turns that the sea-born hare had given them, down came the whole posse to the swamp; the huntsman went round a mill-head not far off, and tried the other side of the river: " No! d-n her, where can she be?" And thus, amidst conjectures, disputations, mutual blamings, and swearings a plenty, they concluded, some of them half-leg deep in dirt, and going soaking home at the end of a drizzling day.

Now, say you, what has this to do with my pamphlet? Ah! it has every thing to do with it; for some wicked fellow has led you just such a dance as I led Mr. GEORGE BRADLEY. You have been put upon a wrong scent; you have been hunting a red-herring instead of a hare, though, it appears, you understand Greek, having taken a Greek motto for your pamphlet; which latter circumstance is to be added to a thousand other proofs which we have seen, that, generally speaking, the learned lan-gunges, as they are falsely called, are must be twenty-one years of age, of worse than useless. With this, I con- their bonds and sureties are worthless

low; then on I went over the roughest | that, if you be not, on Sunday, the 8. of September, a wiser politician than you ever yet have been, the fault shall not be that of him who has the honour r indirectly, in any ed ot

Your most obedient humble servant, TTABBOOTAWeetly or indirectly, he makes himself liable urling for every single day SIR JOHN KEY AND SON.

This affair must not be slurred over. It has been brought out by the spite of the two old factions against each other, and the result is, an exemplification of " people fall out, honest men get their "due." Not our due yet, to be sure; but we are put in a fair way of getting our due; and, if we do not actually get it, the fault will be our own, and will be justly imputable to us who are members of the House of Commons.

In order that my readers may have a clear and comprehensive view of this matter, it is necessary that I inform them, that there is an office under the Government, called the "STATIONERY OFFICE." The business of this office is, to make contracts for paper, and other stationery, and to supply the different departments and offices under the Government; and also the two Houses of Parliament, their clerks, their committees, their printers and bookbinders, with the stationery which they stand in need of. To carry on the affairs of this office, there is a head officer, called a comptroller; under him there is a store-keeper; and after him come cer-tain clerks. The business of the comptroller appears to be to make contracts, attend to the payments, and the like. The business of the store-keeper is that of inspecting paper and other articles, to see that they are good; or, at least, agreeable to the contract; and these parties, when they enter on their office, enter into bonds, with sureties for the due performance of the duties attached clude this present letter, promising you, in law.

The said to the Colonial State of the Coloni of Commons can be a contractor under Government; nor can he have any share, directly or indirectly, in any contract; and if, while he be a contractor, or have any share, directly or indirectly, in a contract, he makes himself liable by law to pay a penalty of five hundred pounds sterling for every single day that he sits, or votes, in the House. We all know that Ker voted for the Irish Coercion Bill, and spoke for it; but, it is easy to prove, in a court of justice, that he sat in the House thirty or forty times.

Thus stand the establishments, the regulations, and the law, with regard to this subject. Some time ago, certain stationers of the city of London, twentyseven in number, several of whom, be it observed, have had contracts themselves heretofere; and who, now, seeing the KRYS at the boney-pot, knowing how sweet the honey was, and, I dare say, thinking it a pity that it should be swallowed in any illegitimate manner, and, finally, urged on by the irresistible impulse of their public spirit, sent a petition to the House of Commons, ulleging, that Sir John Key was the real contractor, while his brother, MUCKLES-TON KEY pretended to be the contractor; and that Master KINGSMILL GROVE KEY, who had been appointed to be store-keeper and inspector of the paper at the Stationery-office, was the son of Sir John Key; and, moreover, was under age, and could not legally enter into bonds and give sureties; and, that the office had been obtained for him by the father giving a false certificate of his age, which the son also knew to be false.

This is, altogether, a very pretty Treasury. The public-spirited peti-tioning stationers, in their anxiety to oust the Kays from the honey-pot, prayed the House of Commons to inquire into the matter forthwith, in order that Ker might be ousted from his seat, and his son from his office. A select committee was appointed on the 5. of thing down upon the head of the unfor-

Then, again, no member of the House August, consisting of the following members:

Sir Henry Hardinge Lord Granville Somerset Sir James Scarlett Mr. William Ewart Gladstone Mr. Frederick Shaw Sir Matthew Ridley Mr. Pelham b bus Mr. Shaw Lefevre Mr. O'Connell Colonel Evans Sir Robert Peel Lord Viscount Althorp Lord John Russell Mr. Francis Baring Mr. Robert Gordon Mr. Attorney-General Mr. Nicholl

Mr. Halford Mr. Hughes Hughes Mr. Tennyson Mr. John Sebright

Mr. Harvey. This committee, of which Lord GRANVILLE SOMERSET Was the chairman, made their report on the 16 of August. And they attach to their first report a mass of evidence consisting of forty-seven pages of folio print. This evidence will require looking into hereafter; but, at present, I shall content myself with some remarks upon the report. I insert this report in the latter part of this Register; and I beg the reader to go through it with great attention; for, it does, indeed, contain a pretty fair summary of the whole of the evidence. From it the reader will perceive, that, as soon as Key discovered that he was blown, he quitted his seat in Parliament; and it will also be seen, by a document in the appendix, that young Key resigned his office about story. The appointments in the Stathe same time. Thus, the "public-spitionery-office are in the hands of the rited stationers" fairly drove the old drone and the young drone from the honey-pot. But is that to be ALL? Is there to be nothing in the way of example to wrong-doers? When a man is indicted, or informed against, ex-officio for a libel, the Attorney-General always winds up his peal of thunder, with rattunate and devoted offender, " In defi-" ance of our Sovereign Lord the King, " his crown and dignity, and to the cuil "example of all others in like case offending." So far from making use of thunder like this, this mild and considerate committee, after having given the House the proof, that Key being a contractor, and also sitting and voting as a member of Parliament at the same time; and, after having given the House the proof, that KEY and his son had, by means of a false statement, illegally obtained a lucrative office for the latter; this mild, this compassionate, this con- clerk in conducting the affairs of this siderate committee conclude their re-tremendous job. The petition sets forth, port in the following words: "Upon that immense sums of the public money "the first subject referred to in the pe- have been wasted and plundered, under "tition, your committee do not feel pretence of carrying on this canal. And " called upon to offer any opinion, in it also sets forth, that the petitioner was " consequence of Sir John Key having ill treated and wronged in consequence " vacated his seat in Parliament. Upon of his endenvours to cause justice to be "the second, your committee have done to the public offing din

" be-all" and the " end-all!" Have by him, if he chose, until to day (Wedwe no law-officers? There were some nesday), eleven o'clock, when I sent for about two years ago, or little better, as them, and had then brought to me at I had reason to know. What! no pro- the House of Commons. So that I took secution for the sitting and voting; no nobody by surprises I do not like unproceeding for the false certificate of derhanded proceedings: I like to tell age! If this be the case, I should like people beforehand what I intend to do. to know why the woman was trans- likept a copy of the petition, because ported for anti-duting her certificate of the patitioner is at a distance; and marriage, in order to get a pension after when once presented, it was gone from no! This shall not be the "be all" kept such copy. and the " end-all," if I live to go into the To-day, at 12 o'clock, having five House of Commons next year. Memory other petitions to present, I presented was not given us for nothing. There is something due on this score to the injured and burdened people; and, I trust that the House will not meet again without a resolution to do that took place upon the occasion; in order which justice demands, if it be not done that Mr. Bungss may see that I did in the meanwhile by the order of the Ministers themselves.

· freeze per per

- Title and a second

RIDEAU CANAL

This is a curious affair. It is a canal made and making in Canada. It has already cost about 800,000'. of English money. "We chave avoted, this year, 40,000l for the finishing of it. If the whole of this money had been taken and flung into the sea, Jam of opinion, that it would have been better for this country al have received a petition, only a fewe days ago; from Mr. Henry Howard Boncess; who now lives at BALTIMORE, and who was the chief "thought the most advisable course Along with this petition I received " was to present, without observations two letters from othe petitioner, and " or comment, the foregoing summary copies of certain letters to him, and " of evidence, and to recommend the concerning him, all of which, along " whole of the evidence itself to the with the petition, I put into the hands " perusal of the House." Alussen as " of Mr. Sranter on Friday or Saturday What ! and that ALL! That the last, leaving them to be kept, and read those five, and this petition of Mr. Bus-GESS the last; and, now, before I go further upon this subject, I will insert the Morning Chronicle's report of what not neglect my duty. " Mr. Conners said he had six peti-" tions to present. The first wa " the rate-payers of the town of Was-". wick against any alteration in the

" Beer Bill-praying also for the repeal " of the malt duty. The next was from "the Nottingham Political Union, " praying for an inquiry into the case " of Joshua Hobson, and that the ma-" gistrates be punished for their conduct "towards him aid The shird was from "Roger Middletony of Newcastle-upon-"Tyne, complaining of the partial ad-" ministration of justice by awo magis-" trates, who had fined him 54., and an-" other person but 50 for the same of-"fence; and the cause of his being so heavily fixed he accidend the his having taken had certain publication." The hos Member and the certain publication. "The hos Member and the certain he well-eved that statement to be correct, from in-"formation which he had received from " were partial in many instances, and it f' had witnessed the enormous plunder "from Swansea, in favour of the Stay "accuser, and, if no immorality, mad"of Tithes Suits Bill will be sixth was "ness; and if he had ever committed "from Henry Howard Burgess of Bal"an assault, or had blundered into the timore, in the United States relating to bed of another man's wife, it was certo the Rideau Canal. The hon. Mento the Rideau Canal. The hon. Mento be said he believed that canal to have to be charges. Who was to believe been one of the worst jobs of the Wellington administration, and the Rideau Canall Such charges against "also believed that if his Majesty's Go- "him failing, insanity is resorted to." vernment and the House did what they "In short, every man who accuses any ought to do, they could obtain not "branch of this Government of miscon-" less than 200,0004 to the Treasury, "comfort to the noble Lord opposite. "moninis under the hand of Colonel By "The latter petition contained allega-" tions of misconduct against Lient. "Col. By, and stated that the public " money was misapplied to a consider-"able extent. It also stated that, in " consequence of those circumstances, "the petitioner thought fit to withdraw " from the situation he held on the es-"tablishment, and to forward a state-" ment to the Government, pointing out " the matters of which he complained, " and requesting an inquiry,
"The hon. Member was interrupted
" in his speech by the entrance of the "Usher of the Black Box who sum-

"ceeded to the House of Lords, and, on their return, the Speaker rend a list of the bills to which the Royal Assent " had been given. 10010 50 Mr. Conserr resumed. He could say that all the allegations in the Spetition were true, he believed them that such was the case, from what he "had seen in some of the colonies. "He had resided eight years of his life "a respectable source, Mogistrates, "in the colonies of America, and he " was the duty of the law-officers of the " which was committed. It had been "crown to take notice of such conduct. " said that this petitioner was not in his "The fourth petition was from Thomas fi right senses. It always happened Murphy, of Dublin, gracer and spirit. "that when my accusation was brought " dealer, against the spy system in the "against any official person, some im-" metropolitan policean The fifth was if morality was found out against the Meduct, is either a bad man, or a mad "which would, he was sure the a great "maning Mr. Burgess, having testi-"himself, to prove that he was not a "bad man, was, it was rumoured, to " be set down as a mad man. But his " (Mr. Cobbett's) firm conviction was, " that if this mad man were brought to "England, and were to point out the " persons and papers to be sent for by " a committee of the House of Com-"mons, a hundred thousand pounds or "two would be recovered." " Mr. STANLEY said, that before 4 " petition from Mr. Burgess
" on the table, he wished to a " words. He had applied, as " duty, to the Ordanees for su

" moned the House to the House of " Peers, to hear the Royal Assent given

"by commission to some bills. The "Speaker and several Members pro-

59

66

66

46

46

44

66

66

46

41

#6

64

46

44

66

66

66

44

86 al

ins

by na

M

be til

W

he re

" and he was afraid Mr. Burgess was " labouring under some mental delu-" sion, inasmuch asthere had been a cer- " ginning to the end. Independent of " tificate furnished by the medical gentle-" men who had examined him, and they " certified that he was labouring under " mental delusion, and he (Mr. Stanley) " mittees of inquiry. With respect to " was sorry to say, that it was caused by " intemperance. His only object at " present, was to show the Houseand the " hon. Gentleman opposite, that, so far " as inquiry and investigation went, " Mr. Burgess had nothing to complain " of. In 1826 Mr. Burgess was ap-" pointed engineer. In the beginning " of 1830, without assigning any rea-" son, he suggested an intention of re-" signing the situation he held. His " resignation was not then accepted; " but in the latter end of the month of " March he was removed for neglect of " duty. He then returned to England, " and made many complaints before the " Ordnance; and in consequence of these " complaints, the strictest investigation " was ordered on the subject. In Sep-" tember, 1831, on the representation " of this very Mr. Burgess that his " presence was indispensable, that he " alone could farnish the documents, " and that he alone could lay all the " information before a tribunal, a com-" mittee of inquiry was appointed at Ca-" nada, and Mr. Burgess was paid all " his expenses out to that place, in or-" der that he might be on the spot. An " investigation was commenced, when "Mr. Burgess suddenly made a com-" plaint that the court was not an open " court, and that they did not examine " on oath, which they had not the power " of doing, and without saying a word, "Mr. Burgess suddenly disappeared. " His brother had also been brought " from Quebec at the expense of the "Government, and, on the eve of his "March, 1830; so that, in the short " being brought before the committee " space of four months, this young man's of inquiry, he also disappeared. A "habits, character, and mind, had all " very long report had been made by " undergone a complete revolution, " the commissioners, which consisted of " (here Mr. Stanley answered across the four volumes of evidence, which were " table, they had undergone a complete transmitted to the Ordnance, and the master-general of the Ordnance carefully went through the whole of it, "coming from the Board of Ordnance

" mation as they might be able to give, | " and which, if the hon. Member for "Oldham wished to see, he was per-" feetly at liberty to read from the be-" this inquiry, the whole matter of the " Rideau Canal had already been the " subject of two all-searching com-" Mr. Burgess's claims for money, they " lay a little on the wrong side of the " account; the Ordnance would be very " happy to have an opportunity of ba-" lancing Mr. Burgess's account, when " ever he should appear in this country." "The Ordnance account stood thus:-"There was a debt due from the Ord-" nance to him and his brother of 81; " and there was a debt set against him, " due to the Ordnance, of 911. But he " being in the United States, it was ra-"ther difficult to proceed against him " for it; but in the event of his ever " coming to this country, Mr. Burgess " might relyupon it that the first step the "Ordnance would take, would be to ar-" rest him for the 911. due from him to " the Ordnance, and then it would be " brought before another searching tri-" bunal, instead of a committee of the " House of Commons, but where Mr. " Burgess could make his defence.

"Mr. Cobbett, in answer to the " statement of the Right Hon. Secre-" tary, read a letter [inserted below] " from Colonel By to Colonel Howard, " saying every thing that was good of " this young man, extolling his diligence, his ability, his fidelity, and " insisting on the justice of making a " permanent provision for him in some place under the Government. This "letter was dated on the 29. of Novem-" ber, 1829; and the right hon. Secre-" tary had said that the insanity " produced by intemperance, became " absolutely intolerable in the month of

" in England itself, and signed by Col. ["Butler. This letter is dated in the month of October, 1831; and in this "letter Colonel Butler informed Mr. "Burgess, who was then at Liverpool, "that there was a passage provided for "him at the public expense to go to " New York, and that athe consul "there was ordered to pay him money " to bear his expenses to Canada; and " yet we are now told, that he was cer-"tified to be insane in the month of " March 1830! And did the Board of " Ordnance thus send a madman to sea? "In short, if they did do this, what be-"comes of their hamanity, and what " becomes of their care of the public " money ? He (Mr. Cobbett) believed "the right hon. Gentleman was de-"ceived by those who had described the " situation and characer of this young man. As to the Court of Inquiry " held in Canada, he only wished the " right hon. Gentleman had seen such " colonial management as he had wit-" nessed for eight years of his life: 11 "Mr. Burgess owed Sole or 901che (Mr. "C.) would pay the money out of his " own pocket, but his firm opinion was " that the Ordnance dared not face Mr. " Burgess, and dared not bring him to "England. The House would do as "they pleased, he had discharged his "duty in the manner he thought best, "and the House would discharge its "duty, he had no doubt, in the manner " that it ought to discharge it much aid

This charge of insanity, arising from a long course of drunkenness, had been instilled into the mind of Mr. STANLEY by some people in the Board of Ordnance; and backed as he was by Mr. MABERLY, who belongs to that Board, I believe, the defence seemed triumphant, till I read the letter of Colonel By which, in justice to Mr. Bungess, I here insert, before I go farther with my remarks.

" Royal Engineers' Office, " Rideau Ganal, 29. Nov., 1829. " SIR,-Mr. H. Howard Burgess, a " moment, having mentioned to me that it would afford him great satisfaction if I would give him a certificate of " his good conduct during the time he has been employed in my office, I have the honour of assuring you, that no young man could have conducted himself more to my entire satisfaction; and I regret extremely, that the situation he holds under me will cease with the service on which I am now employed, about the middle of August, 1831; but should it be in my power to obtain for him any one of the situations that must be created at the opening of the Rideau Canal, I will do all in my power to procure one for " him ; but as these places will, in all probability, be at the disposal of the Lords of the Treasury, your having "the kindness to use your interest, " may be the means of securing to him "the situation of collector of the lock " tolls at one of the stations; a situa-"tion I think he richly merits, from " the uniform good conduct and unre-" mitting attention he has at all times " shown since he has been employed " in the Royal Engineer Department at " the Rideau Canal. Trusting you will excuse this liberty,

"I have the honour to be, Sir, "Your most obedient humble servant, (Signed) Ju (Signed) BY,

In high a Lieut. Col. Royal Engineers, -10 pi ,996iff Com. Ridean Canal, Upper Canada.

" To Col. Howard, &c. &c. &c."

This was what we call a staggerer. This letter was written on the 29. of November, 1829; and in March, 1830, there had been a complete and total revolution in the character of this young man: from being the person described as above, he had become, in March, in just four months, to a day, a person afflicted with insanity arising from drunker ness! This was something so wonderful as for the House scarcely to be able to swallow it. But, this was not all that the House had to swallow, for, young man recommended to me by from the following document, whic his the Lord Bishop of Quebec, in Au- a letter written to Mr. Buzess, he gust, 1826, and who has continued being at Liverpoot, in the month of with me from that to the present October, 1831, directing him to go to Canada at the public expense, and re- you have great power and great pacognising him as actually in the public tronage; but, if you had all the hands employ; which letter was, and is, as of BRIARIUS, all the eyes of ARGUS, and foilows.

of Office of Ordnance, natical 1881 d. 4. 180 thtement

" Sir,-The board baving received a " communication from the commis-" sioners of the navy, signifying that "they have directed Lieut. Browne, " then agent at Liverpool, to provide " you with a passage to New York, "I have it in command to acquaint " you therewith, in addition to my letter " of the 1. instant, and to desire you " will apply to Lieut. Browne accord-" ingly, immediately upon your re-" ceiving this communication, and that " you will proceed by the conveyance " which may be allotted for you by 4 that officers spoints bun bue stanb

"I am at the same time to inform " you, that the British Consul at New " York will be requested by the Board " to pay you the sum of 10L on your " arrival at that place, to defray your underlings ...

" expenses to Quebec.

there were col, rise, ma 114. v " Your most obedient humble servant, (Signed) aguine " G. Burlento of For the secretary."

canal job scems to have ove what a pretty Government was here! made further inquiry! If I find grounds What a pretty Board of Ordnance! to proceed, which I think I shall, I will sending him five thousand miles, three go steadily on till this matter be put to by water, and two by land, and two rights. viredil a nouver hundred miles to Liverpool to begin tappears that Mr. Bungess made an with, and authorising him to draw application to Mr. Ewast, member for money from the consul at Nzw York; Livezpoor, similar to that which he has and this a man, in verification of whose now made to me. It also appears, that ineanity " two physicians had signed a Mr. Ewart communicated with the certificate !" Two government physi- Board of Ordnance, and that Board cians, I suppose! Two Ordnance phy- satisfied him that Mr. Bungess was By- Town, I dare be sworn! Two physicians at insane; and he, therefore, did not pre-Ah! Mr. STANLEY! You sit upon a think it my duty to present any petition sench proverbial for wisdom; and from which is worded in a manner respectful its nature engendering cheers; you are to the House, and containing a prayer a clever, and a frank, and, I verily believe, an honest man; and a great deal and which does not contain indecent too frank to deal with these colonial expressions towards anybody else. them to trust you with their secrets : fair, to show a petition, before it be as many ears as eyes, you could not keep those people honest. You could not do the work yourself you could not find any body to assist you, that would not league with the cheaters; all that you can do is to inspire terror; and that you can do only by attending to all complaints that are made, and by subjecting the delinquents to committees of the House of Commons. They laugh at boards," at a courts of inquiry," and "courts of laso's but they, who are afraid of neither God nor devil, tremble at the thought of debates in the House, and of committees "up stairs." Of auditors and clerks of the cheque, and all that rubbish, they have seen too much to care a pin about it; but they cannot endure the terrible ordeal of St. STEPHEN'S plor there, by hook or by crook, first or last every thing comes he fostering of folly; timo

This matter must now rest for awhile; but, I much question, if the respectable inhabitants of By-Town will have such sweet sleep as they have been accustomed tobs I have very seldom undertaken anything that I did not go through with roll have not yet undertaken this So, if Mr. Bunouss were insane, matter at all ; and I shall not, till I have ans that dined at the mess, I take it ! differ in the estimate of our duties. I evils, and a great deal too honest for hold it to be convenient, proper, and head of that department, before it be to the utmost of its power. House, because the parties to whom it the present case syll to in is shown, say that it is groundless, is what I hold I have NO RIGHT to do right; and I am a wrong-doer, when a with the above-mentioned rule. If disrespectful to the House, it is not my duty to present vit; because I have no right to insult the Houses if it pray for what the House cannot legally grant, I have a right to refuse to present nit; because it is not my duty to be instrumental in the fostering of folly; but, have no right to refuse to present a petition because lany ione ptells me it is groundless or false. I self to statidadni

Ô

15

If we were to adopt the rule, which would seem to be contended for in this case; that is to say, sift we were to refuse to present petitional merely because they were said to be false by those Parsons! Show them your petitions by The newspapers give no report of the devil else have the people to petition against? It is power that you have to petition against; and these are all so many powers, which you can come at by exercise of all power to account. For private wrong-doers there are the courts of law; there are the constable and presented to any member of the House ily enough, the fault is not theirs; but against whom it contains a specific alle- for public wrongs there is no mode of gation; and, if the petition allege mal- proceeding effectually, but by petition versation against persons in a particular to Parliament, whose duty, and the very department of the Government, pro- first of whose duties it is, to attend priety, as well insconvenience, dictates patiently to a statement of the grievthe showing of such petition to the ances of the people, and to redress them Its next presented : but to withhold the petition, duty is to spare the people's purses; to keep it from the knowledge of the and this was a duty to be performed in

1 have not the smallest doubt of the desire of Mr. STANLEY to see perfect The right of petition is an absolute justice done in this case to entertain such doubt would be to set reason and petition is deposited with me, if I do nature at defiance; but I may doubt, not present it, if it be in conformity and I do doubt, his power to cause that justice to be done without the assistance of the House of Commons; and I am very sure, that, though clever and industrious and zealous and acute, he must see a great deal more than he has yet seen, before he can bring his mind to believe in the existence of so much craft, united with so much brass, as are to be found in the colonial chiefs and their underlings. It always was so, since there were colonies in the world. utmost that any government can do, is, to check the planderings, and keep them within moderate bounds. This RIDEAU canal job seems to have over-stepped all bounds, and a good sousing example against whom they were pointed, the might have a salutary effect in all our "right of petition "lowould become a colonies in every part of the world; most beautiful farce bilt would be dike and, if there be sufficient cause for makold ELLENBOROUGH's liberty of the ing that example, it would be a shame, press: namely, "a right to my any indeed, if the Parliament would not thing that could give nobody pain." make it. For my part I shall do all that Boards! Offices! Departments Iv Ma- I can to cause justice to be done to the against them; they would all swear what was said, either by Mr. MABERLY that they are false, to be sure; and, who or Mr. Ewast. It was, indeed, little more than an exchange of compliments, tending, however, to strengthen and confirm the statement of Mr. STANLEY. I must just add, that Mr. STANLEY obno means other than that of petition, to served, that this matter belonged to the those who have a right to call the Ordnance department, and not to his I must protest against this principle. It is an affair belonging to the colonies; beadle and jailer and hangman; and, If members of Parliament were to conif they do not deal with offenders rough- descend to dance attendance at, or to make applications to, subaltern depart- only crime is, that of making accusaments, they would themselves be persons to be pitied rather than to be confided in. For my part, my business is with the House of Commons, and the House of Commons alone; and, if I communicate with any department, it will be because I think such communication fair and useful; but never will I, while I am a member of Parliament, communicate with any but the head of that department. In conclusion, I think it right to say, that I have a very high opinion of Mr. STANLEY's integrity and industry, and in his zeal for the public service; but that I am sure that he has been deceived with regard to this matter. For instance, the newspaper reports make him say, that" two medical men certified the insanity of Mr. Burgess." But, in the presence of all his colleagues and about a hundred members, he did say " two physicians" had signed that certificate. I wondered how the devil two physicians got to " By- Town !" Oh! my God! I wish I could go to " By-Town," with Mr. Bungess along with me! How soon would I rummage out that rat's nest, and get at all the hoards of peas and beans and dried meat! The 1. Retailers of Beer, Warwick. Prays two physicians, Mr. STANLEY will be surprised to find, to be a brace of regimental or garrison surgeons; their atax may be repealed. science improved by opportunities of 2. Nottingham Political Union. making philosophical observations at the for inquiry into the case of Joshua the mess at " By- Town," I take it. Hobson; and that the magistrates But, again I say, that no human being may be punished. can be a match for these people, unless 3. Royer Middleton, Newcastle-uponhe has lived amongst them upon the Tyne. Complains of the partial spot; and, even then, he must be what administration of justice by two the Berkshire folks say of the Bristol magistrates, W. Brandling and C. men, "A man to sleep with one eye at J. Bigge, Esqrs.; states that they a time." I am sorry that Mr. STANLEY | fined petitioner 51. and another man has espoused the cause of these people; 5s. for the same offence, alleging as and, I am very sure, that he will have to acknowledge his error on the subject.

I think it will be the duty of every honest editor of a newspaper in the 4. THOMAS HALPIN, DUBLIN, Grocer King's dominions, to publish this whole article from the beginning to the end. It is a subject of great public interest, and the publicity is an act of bure justice towards Mr. Burgess, who has thus en proclaimed throughout the world 5. Swanska (Wales). as a drunkard and a madman, and whose tions against persons, who, he says, have squandered and misappropriated the public money. The debt of Mr. Bungess to the Ordnance is a curious affair. He clearly shows, that they are in his debt to the amount of 800l., and they keep him from Canada by a threat to arrest him. I sent, as I observed before, all his documents to Mr. STAN-LEY, many days before I presented his petition; and, if I undertake to carry this matter through, every step that I take shall be made known to the public, express a doubt of the cor

I repeated the d .SNOITITES hear some ie statement contained and he asked the name

I PRESENTED the following petitions yesterday (Wednesday), making the last of about two hundred and fifty that I have had to present during this session; a part of my duty which I have always looked upon as the most imperative, and which I have always performed in the best manner that time and circumstances would enable me to perform it.

- that no alteration may be made in the Beer Bill; and that the malt
- a reason, that petitioner took in the Newcastle Press newspaper; prays for redress.
- and Spirit Dealer. Complains of the conduct of the police at Dublin; that they are employed as spies; and prays the House to put a stop to such practices,
- In favour of the Tithes Stay of Actions Bill.

d r.

18

re

đ

d

3

t

d

Newcastle, Sir M. WHITE RIDLEY ap- right of petition. these are exercised, will be pleased with been intercepted solide exclide those who exercise them, any more than it what I "now I will be the Brown to Brown the we expect an apprentice boy to be gains named on sans , yas an pleased with his master, when he chas salm unless people and the chaster when he chaster when he chaster will be chaster with the chaster with tises him. Therefore, complaints against CLOSE OF THE SESSION. magistrates ought to be received with great caution; but, on the other hand if they be not received at all, or be not attended to the chair of the other hand.

6. Mr. HENRY HOWARD BURGESS, Bal- though it was unlawful to sentence Mr. timore, United States, America. Honson to be put into a place, where Complains of peculation in the the rules required that he should be Rideau canal job and prays, that treated like a felon, or a person guilty the House will cause the Board of of misdemeanour; yet, here was plenty Ordnance to puy him certain of scope to plead ferror of judgment ; monies, which he alleges are due to and, besides, there were the delay and him, and improperly withheld; the enormous expenses. A petition to but particularly prays, that an in- the House of Commons, therefore, was quiry may take place into the man- the mode of proceeding; and, such pener in which the money has been tition ought to have been presented the When I presented the petition from This is another proof of the value of the peared to express a doubt of the cor- Having mentioned the case of Mr. rectness of the statement contained in Hosson, I think it right to state here, the petition; and he asked the names that I wrote a letter to him one day last of the two magistrates. I repeated the week, directed to him at the House of names, and L'expected to hear some- Correction at WAKEPIELD, Yorkshire. thing in the way of defence of these ma- In this letter I told him, that I had gistrates; but, I heard nothing. Ma- heard, that the Secretary of State ingistrates, like other men, are liable to do tended to order his release and the rewrong, whether from error of judgment, mission of his fine, in consequence of or bad intention. The former is always the unjust treatment that he had reto be presumed, unless there be staring ceived; and I concluded with advising proof of the latter; and, if this were not him not again to expose himself to the the case, nobody would be a magistrate. consequence of similar proceedings It is the pressing interest of every good against him; that, whatever the law man, that the peace should be effectually might be, the disobeying of it, as long kept. To do this there must be great as it existed, must be attended with bad power and large discretion lodged in consequences to himself as hope that the hands of the magistrates! It is not Mr. Houson got this letter; but I mento be expected, that those persons, in tion it here, because I have read, or the punishing or restraining of whom heard, that Mr. Hosson's letters have attended to; if you lay down the rule, THE Speaker took the chair at a that they always do right, or, that they quarter to two. On our admission into must be supported in what they do, the gallery, we found Sir R. Inglis in whether right or wrong, you proclaim possession of the House. The hone the existence of a most intolerable tyran-Baronet, after presenting the 42nd Reny. And, though they may be proceeded against in the Court of King's Bench, the difficulties are so great, that, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, there is, in effect, no remedy for you. In the very flagrant case of Mr. Hands at twice the number of days, and their very flagrant case of Mr. Hands at twice the number of hours of former In the very flagrant case of Mr. Honson thrice the number of hours of former of Hunderstell, for instance, though sessions. The celebrated reform Parthere was a clear violation of law; liament sat 119 days; the present ses1806, Parliament sat 129 days and 645 " Warwick, that the right hon. the Earl hours. In 1807, it sat 101 days, and on an average 5 hours a day, and in 1811 the average was 41 each day. This session had sat nine hours a day "ing orders of the House, and of the during its sittings on an average, and & law of the land, is deeply implicated for much the larger half of the session, since Easter, very considerably more of large sums of money in various cor. than 12 hours a day. The hon, Baronet "rupt and illegal practices during the considered it but justice to state these facts, being due to the labour and accuracy of the committee and its officers, who had been appointed to burgesses of the borough, were imsuperintend the printing of the public ! plicated in various Illegal practices, petitions. must have

Mr. Connert wished to know from the Solicitor - General whether those individuals who had been illegally tried at Clerkenwell, and were now at Portsmouth sentenced to transportation, were not to undergo another trial?

The SOLICITOR-GENERAL said, those who had been tried at the Old Bailey, had been tried again by commission. He had made application as to those now referred to, and the answer was (as we understood), that their sentence should not be carried into effect.

Mr. S. Rice brought up the third report of the Commissioners of Excise.

THE EARL OF WARWICK. Today

Prince Esterbazy; and nearl

Colonel Evans said, that in consequence of the extraordinary answer which the noble Lord (Althorp) had iven on the subject of the Earl of Warwick, which had been matter of astonishment to a great portion of the country, that Government was not prepared to state what course it should adopt, he considered it due to the dignity of that House and to the rights and privileges of the Commons of England, without the slightest intention of impeaching that noble Lord, and with the sincerest desire that he might be able to refute the allegations brought against him, to submit to the House the following resolution: - The hon. Gentleman then read the following resolution: -" That it appearing by the report of deal with the matter. the select committee appointed to sion 142 days and 1,270 hours. In |" of the late election for the borough of " of Warwick, Lord Lieutenant of the "county, and a Peer of the realm, in " violation of the resolutions and stand-" by his agents, and the application of " last election of the borough of War. wick, and that Alexander Brown, the "steward, and rarious aldermen and "the Attorney-General be directed to " prosecute the Earl of Warwick, and all "others named or described in the re-" port of the said select committee, " as concerned in the unlawful pro-" ceedings aforesaid.

> Mr. Cobbett seconded the motion. Lord ALTHORP complained, that he had been taken by surprise by the resolutions, and he would leave it to the hon. Gentleman himself whether, without any previous notice, and a motion being on the books for the next session, he should persevere in it. The House was called to direct a prosecution altogether without precedent, and without an opportunity of discussing the merits of the case. (Hear, hear): He had stated last night, that no written answer had yet been returned by the Earl of Warwick to the letter which had been written to him; but because he (Lord Althorp) had not been able to state what course Government, under those circumstances, meant to pursue, he was astonished to hear that this statement, which he had made yesterday, if, indeed, it were known throughout the county, could possibly have excited that dissatisfaction and alarm which the hon, and gallant Member had described. That seemed as strange a conclusion as he had ever heard any gentleman draw from such premises. Government was determined not to protect any individual in the violation of the privileges of that House, and was perfectly ready next session to Sir S. WHALLEY and Mr. C. FERODImake inquiry into the circumstance son spoke in favour of the resolution, next session.

Sir R. Inglis spoke against it.

Colonel Evans rose to address the House, but was called to order by the Speaker, Sir Augustus Clifford having entered to summons the Commons to the Upper House, bas, sings sid yo

On his return the SPEARER read his Majesty's speech, shook hands with the Ministers, und retired to noisele tast

His Majesty having concluded his speech, the Lord Chancellor, by the direction of the King, announced the prorogation of Parliament till Wednesday, the 31. of October. His Majesty appeared to be in exceedingly good health; mounted the steps of the Throne with a firm step, and read his speech with a clear loud voice, bansaana an

" ceedings aforesaid.

had been taken by sur PROROGATIONES, amountal OF PARLIAMENT.

Annagar seconded th

ord Aurmore complaine

His Majesty having signified his intention to prorogue the Parliament in person, the usual preparations were made suitable to an occasion of so great a matter of state ceremony to winging

In the course of the forencian, wast numbers of persons began to congregate on the line of the Royal procession, from St. James's Palace to the House of Lords. A great number of police were stationed on the same line to preserve order and regularity, under the superintendance of Commissioners Rowan and Mayne. Sir Frederick A. Rowe, chief magistrate of Bow-street, was also on duty, and in the immediate vicinity of the entrance to the House of Lords and Commons, Mr. Lee, the deputy high constable of Westminster, had stationed a strong party of the local constabulary of the city of Westminster, to prevent interruption to the members in their progress to those Houses.

About one o'clock a detachment of the Royal Horse Guards Blue was stationed along the line of approach, and at the same time a detachment of the Royal Horse Guards (first regiment) but recommended its withdrawal till dismounted, arrived, and lined the gallery leading from the royal entrance at the House of Lords to the Painted. Chamber. Both that gallery, and the Painted Chamber, contained a great number of ladies of rank and fashion.

In the interior of the House of Lords the scene was very animating. About arrive; and take their seats on the Peers' benches. A greater number of those ladies attended upon this, than ulmost upon any former similar occasion, and the effect was very striking. By the time his Majesty arrived, there must have been at least 150 ladies present, and but little room was left for the Peers, of whom, indeed, there was but a comparatively small number. the Peers were their robes and orders.

The gallery appropriated to strangers, was crowded at an early hour.

The Lord Chancelfor entered the House about one o'clock, and after prayers were read by the Bishop of Hereford, gave judgment in the case of a Scotch appeal, the particulars of which were of no public interest. The House then adjourned during pleasure.

Most of the Judges took their seats on the Woolsack, and Prince Talleyrand, Prince Esterhazy, and nearly all the other Ambassadors from Foreign Powers occupied seats on the Bishops' Benches.

The King entered the House at a quarter past two o'clock, the Commons made his speech, his Majesty said—

My Lords and Gentlemen,

"In opening the present Parliament, I stated that never at any time had subjects of greater interest and magnitude called for your attention.

"The manner in which you have discharged the duties thus committed to you, now demands my warmest acknowledgments, and enables me to close a session not more remarkable for its extended duration, than for the patient and persevering industry which you have displayed in many laborious inquiries, and in perfecting the various legis- by the committees of both Houses of lative measures which have been Parliament for several successive sesbrought under your consideration.

Allies, and from all Foreign Powers, nesurances of their friendly disposition.

"I regret that I cannot yet announce to you the conclusion of a definitive arrangement between Holland and Belgium, but the convention which, in conjunction with the King of the French, I concluded in May last with the King of the Netherlands, prevents a renewal of hostilities in the Low Counties, and thus affords a fresh security for the general continuance of peace.

"Events which have lately taken place in Portugal have induced me to renew my diplomatic relations with that kingdom, and I have accredited a Minister to the court of her Most Faithful Majesty at Lisbon.

with the greatest anxiety to the moment when the Portuguese Monarchy, so long united with this country by the ties of alliance, and by the closest bonds of interest, may be restored to a state of peace, and may regain its former prosperity.

"The hostilities which had disturbed the peace of Turkey, have been terminated; and you may be assured, that my attention will be carefully directed to any events which may affect the present state or the future independence of that empire.

An investigation, carefully prosecuted during the last session, has enabled you to renew the charter of the Bank of England, on terms which appear to be well calculated to sustain public credit, and to secure the usefulzess of that important establishment.

The laborious inquiries carried on Parliament for several successive sessions, have also enabled you to bring the affairs of the East India Company to a satisfactory adjustment. I have the most confident expectation that the system of Government thus established will prove to have been wisely framed for the improvement and happiness of the natives of India, whilst by the opening of the China trade, a new field has been afforded for the activity and enterprise of British commerce.

The state of slavery in my colonial possessions has necessarily occupied a portion of your time and your attention commensurate with the magnitude and difficulty of the subject, whilst your deliberations have been guided by the paramount considerations of justice and humanity, the interests of the colonial proprietors have not been overlooked. I trust that the future proceedings of the Assemblies, and the conduct of all classes in my colonies, may be such as to give full effect to the benevolent intentions of the legislature, and to satisfy the just expectations of my people.

"I observe with satisfaction that the amendment of the law has continued to occupy your attention, and that several important measures have been adopted, by some of which the titles to property have been rendered more secure, and the conveyance of it more easy; while by others the proceedings in courts, both of law and equity, have been made more The estaexpeditious and less costly. blishment of the Court of Privy Council is another improvement, which, while it materially assists suitors at home, will, I trust, afford substantial relief to those in my foreign possessions.

"You may rest assured that there is no part of your labours which I regard with a deeper interest than that which of the law, to make justice easily accessible to all my subjects.

"With this view I have caused a commission to be issued for digesting into one body the enactments of the Criminal Law, and for inquiring how far, and by what means, a similar process may be extended to the other branches of our jurisprudence. I have also directed commissions to be issued for investigating the state of the municipal corporations throughout the United Kingdom. The result of their inquiries will enable you to mature more means which may seem best fitted to place the internal government of corporate cities and towns upon a solid foundation, in respect of their finances, their judicature, and their police. In the meantime, two important acts have been passed, for giving constitutions upon sound principles to the royal and parliamentary burghs of Scotland, and your attention will hereafter be called to the expediency of extending similar advantages to the unincorporated towns in England, which have now acquired the right of returning members to Parliament. occupy your attention, and "It was with the greatest pain that I felt myself compelled to call upon you for additional powers to control and punish the disturbers of the public peace in Ireland. This call was answered, as I confidently expected, by your loyalty and firmness. I have not found it necessary, except in a very limited degree, to use the powers thus confided to me, and I have now the antisfaction of informing you, that the spirit of insubordination and violence which had prevailed to so alarming an extent, has been in a great measure subdued.

"I look forward with anxiety to the tends, by well-considered amendments time when, the painful necessity of continuing this measure, of great but unavoidable severity, may cease; and I have given my assent, with unqualified satisfaction, to the various salutary and remedial measures which, during the course of the present session, have been proposed to me for my acceptance.

> "The acts which, in pursuance of my recommendation, you have passed with respect to the temporalities of that branch of the united church which is established in Ireland, and for the immediate and total abolition of vestry assessments, and the acts for the better regulation of Juries, both as to their civil and criminal functions, afforded the best proof that full reliance may be placed on the Parliament of the United Kingdom for the introduction of such beneficial improvements as may ensure the welfare of all classes of my subjects; thus effectually cementing that legislative union which, with your support, it is my determination to maintain inviolate, this countribation

" Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

new, and by the closest bene off I thank you for the supplies which you have granted for the service of the year. The estimates proposed to you, by my directions, were considerably lower than those of former sessions; and you have wisely applied the savings which have thus been effected to a diminution of the public burdens. In this course of judicious economy, combined with a due regard to the exigencies of the State, I am persuaded that you will persevere, and thus confirm the title which you have acquired to general confidence as the faithful guardians of the honour of the Crown, and of the true interests of the people.

" My Lords and Gentlemen,

"In returning to your respective counties you will carry with you the gratifying reflection, that your labours have been assiduously employed for the benefit of your fellow-citizens. During the recess, your attention will be equally directed to the same important object : and in this useful, and honourable discharge both of your public and private duties under the blessing of Divine Providence I confidently rely for the encouragement and support of my people in that love of liberty and orderthat spirit of industry and obedience to the laws, and that moral worth which constitute the safety and happiness of nations."

f Of course, I have no time to make any commentary on this speech; and, indeed, if I had time, sober thoughts could not be the inmates of my mind, for, at least, eight-and-forty hours after seeing the King seated on the throne with the crown on his head, and the with the crown on his head, and the "practice of Parliament."
Lord Treasurer, and the Lord High "2d. Because the clause which it Chancellor, and the gold staff, and the " was proposed to substitute for the great seal, and all the golden robes, and " declaratory clause contained in this all the lords, and all the goddesses, "bill would have afforded all the promothers, and daughters; after hearing tection to the public which they have those sublime words "Le Roi le veut" ever had, and have prevented the repeated so often, and with emphasis Bank from enjoying any exclusive so learned! Oh! my honest hand- privilege which it does not at present loom weaving constituents little thought "legally possess. The clause in the what perils they were exposing me to." bill takes from the Bank a privilege I have got home with my head upon " it has always enjoyed, and which primy shoulders, 'tis true; but to say that "vilege, with a full knowledge of all it is the same steady head that it was "the circumstances of the case, it was before, I cannot. Our poor Speaker, "agreed, by the promoters of the bill, though loaded with gold enough, too, looked nothing, when he got before these gods and goddesses, and, as to us, his flock, we seemed to be looking about "ings of the legislature to the impulafor some place to get out of sight. Let " tion of a breach of faith. republicans laugh as long as they will, at what they call "nonsensical show;" it has a great deal more sense in it than they are aware of. Fields and groves "of the legislature that the Governor and deserts and mountains are restricted.

places to phylosophize in; the bar of the House of Lords with the King upon the throne, is the place to study phylosophy. But I must leave off, for my head is not steady enough to proceed.

ca includes the receivir

s, is secured to the

PROTEST OF THE LORDS AGAINST

THE BANK CHARTER BILL

26. August, 1833.

"DISSENTIENT, 1st. Because no sub-"jeet who is in possession of a valuable privilege ought to be deprived of it, " except by the judgment of a court of " justice, after a patient hearing of his "case, and by an impartial decision " upon it, uninfluenced by party or po-"pular feeling. The taking from any " one a right or privilege by a declara-" tory law, supported only by an opi-" nion of the law-officers of the Crown, " (which opinion has never been laid "before this House), and without the " authority or the sanction of the judges, " is an arbitrary and oppressive pro-" ceeding, and contrary to the uniform

" and the Governor and Directors, to continue to the Bank. The altering " continue to the Bank. The altering of this bargain exposes the proceed-and deserts and mountains are not the " and Company of the Bank of Boy"

of

18

all the exclusive privileges of banking given them by any act of Parliament, and although by the letter and wirits of all the statutes relating to that corporation the exclusive privilege of banking, which includes the receiving of deposits as well as the issuing of bills or notes, is secured to the Governor and Company, so that no corporation or company consisting of more than six partners can carry on a bank of deposit or issue in London, or within 65 miles thereof, this clause, under the prefence of removing doubts as to the construction of these acts. enables corporations and companies composed of an unlimited number of partners, to open banks of deposit in any part of England. It has been repeatedly judicially declared by the late Lord Kenvon, Mr. Justice Grose, and other eminent judges, that, if doubts arise as to the true construction of an act of Parliament, such doubts may be removed by contemporaneous usage. There has been afuniform usage in favour of this exclusive privilege from the passing of the first statute relating to the Banksdown to the present timemolina 10 "4th. Because, by giving a right to " open banks of deposit to corporations and companies with an unlimited number of partners, a spirit of specu-" lation will be encouraged, which will " endanger our commercial interests. "If banks possessing the immense capitals which the proposed new " banks will possess succeed, they will " destroy the long-established and high "ly-beneficial system of banking now existing in the metropolis. If they " fail, their failure will ruin many un-" wary persons who may become part-" ners, or who may have dealings with "them. The great capital which they hold will enable them to embarrass " the Bank of England in the discharge " of its most important duties. The " banks which this bill directly sanctions must produce injury to great numbers of individuals, and must endanger the public interest; and on these accounts it was not long since land shall continue to hold and enjoy "declared by the highest legal authority all the exclusive privileges of banking in this House, with reference to the given them by any act of Parliament, and although by the letter and fricit establishment of such companies was of all the statutes relating to that for-

" bth. Because the provision which makes the promissory notes of the Bank of England a legal tender in all cases except when they shall be presented for payment at the Bank, or one of its branches, has a tendency to introduce, without any alleged necessity, and in a time of profound peace, the dangerous principle of a compulsory paper currency.

"WYNFORD,

"BEXLEY,

"CARRINGTON, (for the 1., 2., "3., and 4. reasons),

" ERNEST."

the safety and happiness

CALTHORPE-STREET BATTLE.

The following is the report of the committee on this affair:

"1. That it is the opinion of this committee, regard being had to the knowledge possessed by the commissioners of police of the character and avowed intentions of the persons by whom the meeting was convened, that no blame attaches to them in the arrangements which they made for carrying into effect the instructions they received from the Secretary of State on the occasion in question.

"2. That it is the opinion of this committee, that the conduct of the bodies of police employed in the actual dispersion of the meeting was not attended with greater violence than was occasioned by the resistance they met with from a portion of the meeting in the execution of their orders.

"3. That it is the opinion of this committee, that, after the dispersion of the meeting, some of the police employed in clearing the surrounding ground were suffered to follow persons to a greater distance than was necessary, and that, under these circumstances, they were not subjected to that efficient control which, in a " moment of excitement and irritation, " and after much provocation, could

" alone prevent individual instances of " undue exercise of power.

"That it is the opinion of this com-" mittee, that the meeting was held with " a full knowledge on the part of the " leaders that public notice had been " given by the Government of its being " considered illegal, and that interfe-" rence from the police might be anti-" cipated. And your committee are " further of opinion that resistance in " case of interference was contemplated, " and that, for the purpose of such re" sistance, offensive weapons of a dan-" gerous nature were carried and used by some of the persons composing

" the meeting.

" 5. That it is the opinion of this " committee, that the police did not in " any way interfere with the meeting " until they had fully ascertained its " identity with that which had been " convened by a public placard, pur-" porting to be by order of the Com-" mittee of the National Union of the " Working Classes, for the purpose of " adopting preliminary measures for " holding a national convention; that " the police then advanced in two di-" rections only, not occupying the ground to the north or east, until after the meeting had been dispersed, "and that opportunity was given for " any persons, not taking an active part " in the business of the meeting, to " escape.

" 6. That it is the opinion of this " committee, that none of the police " were in any degree intoxicated, and " that no dangerous wound or perma-" nent injury has been shown to have " been inflicted by them on any indivi-" dual, while, on the other hand, one " of their own number was killed with " a dagger, and two others stabbed while in the discharge of their duty.

"I That while it is the opinion of "this committee, that the conduct of the police, as a body, on the occasion in question affords no just ground of " complaint, they feel it a duty to ade vert to the importance of the utmost " the superintendents and other officers " of the police to check any approach " to unnecessary violence among their " men on all occasions, but more espe-" cially where large bodies of them are employed in the prevention or suppression of disturbance, and the main. " tenance of the public peace."

within the bearing of the olution is libel

Sec.

ADLICE the Chair-

I Take the following from the True Sun of 29. August. It seems that the people are stirring in this matter.

METROPOLITAN POLICE—PARISH OF SAINT MARY, NEWINGTON.

Yesterday evening at six o'clock, a vestry meeting of the parish of St. Mary, Newington, was held in the Schoolroom, near the Church, " to take into " consideration the enormous expense incurred for the maintenance of the police force, and other circumstances connected therewith, and to adopt such measures as may be deemed expedient to relieve the parish from " so burdensome and objectionable a "system." The vestry was fully and respectably attended by the rate-payers. Fox Smith, Esq., churchwarden, in the Previous to the resolutions being put, Mr. Goodwin asked Mr. Inville, the vestry-clerk, if the circular which had been sent to them from Mr. Linsell, secretary to the Parochial Association of the parish of St. James, Westminster, had been laid before the vestry? Upon being informed that it had not, a rather stormy debate ensued, it being stated, that such letter ought to have heen communicated, as directed. It was replied, that as the letter was printed, as such letters generally are, it did not meet with that attention it would have received had it been written. It was added also, that no meeting was held since the letter arrived, though it was dated the 31, of July, before which there was an opportunity to lay the letter for consitteration. This being the answer, es caution and vigilance on the part of which, however, did not appear to gitt iness.

548

icen

oach

their

Spe-

are supainrue

the

OF

, 1

ol-ato

158 he es

1-m id

f

Mr. PUTTYFOOT moved the first olution, remarking that though resolution appeared to be exessed in strong language, it was no re than what the occasion required. read the resolution.

The CHAIRMAN objected to it in toto, not coming within the bearing of the

Messrs. WILLEY, CHEESEMAN, &C., pressed their surprise that the Chairin should make objections before wing heard the whole of the resopeople are stirring in this

CHAIRMAN: Your resolution is libel-

After a warm controversy, Mr. Puttyot proceeded, and said that felonious tent could be proved against some of It was an unconstitutional ower; first, for Government to rule it, hat they should send police spies among hem, (hear, hear); secondly, that they hould be employed to knock people own, and those who paid them; thirdthat it was a military force, having nilitary officers, and employing military xpressions to command them; and astly, for them to have redress against ny one who insulted them, they must o to Scotland-yard. The men who are protect their property come from a undred miles off, while they ought to e men out of their own parish, persons shom they knew. (Cheers).

Mr. WILLEY seconded the resolu-

On the resolution being handed to the Chairman, he objected to put it, as it would lay the parish open to law proreedings. He asked the opinion of Mr. Wood, the parish solicitor, who gave his opinion that the resolution was deeidedly libellous, and would bring an ection on the parish authorities. other warm altercation ensued, in which dessrs. Cheeseman, Brown, Sewell, Wood (not the solicitor), Goodwin, &c., bserved that they thought, with some amendments, the resolution might be cepted. An alteration was then made, but on its again being presented it was till considered libellous, when, after a rishioners th. mselves.

sfaction, the meeting proceeded to | lengthened discussion, the resolution was abandoned,

Mr, CHERREMAN then moved a resolution, in doing which he said that they could not follow a better course than that which they adopted on a former oceasion, and that was by choosing a deputation from their parish to co-operate with other parishes, in endeavouring to obtain that constitutional control over the police force which they have a right to enjoy, they being the best judges of their own respective local interests.

This resolution, upon being seconded, was unanimously adopted.

It was then agreed to form a committee to co-operate with the central committee of the parish of St. James, with full power to act for their own

Mr. Wood, solicitor, remarked upon the last resolution, that they should be firm in their conduct, they ought not to be violent. From what he had heard, it was the intention of Government to listen to their desires, being aware of the great hostility against that force, which is decidedly a military power, and not such a one as was known to our Saxon forefathers; who, in instituting the municipal arrangements of the country, by making division of tithings and hundreds, left the incipient administration of the laws to be done by your substantial yeomen, the entire management of which Government now wish to take to themselves. (Cheers). He supported the plan of one general central committee, as tending to bring into one focus all information in reference to the metropolitan police, as each sub-committee could bring to the general assembly all reports connected with their particular parishes. plause).

The committee was then nominated. It was proposed, that the churchwardens and overseers should form part of the committee; but they stated, that they had so much business to attend to. that they would not be able to do their

The Chairman observed, that that usiness had better be left to the pa-

Thanks having been voted to the change in the system of police" recom-Chairman, the vestry adjourned.

REPORT

FROM THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON METROPOLITAN POLICE.

and having arrived at the vorterings hemselves called utrucoted aM Lord Viscount Lowther the soon Sir Thomas Freemantle 1997 year Mr. Byng he House a details Mr. Robert Gordon at tent tent Mr. Alderman Wood a berehited Sir Robert Peel acimatal as don Mr. William Brougham Lord George Lennox o mounder Mr. Shaw Lefevre Lord Fordwich partitioned W ted Sir Edward Knatchbull Mr. Sergeant Spankie and And Mr. Clay right murebear ad bon Lord Viscount Howick Statemen Lord Viscount Villiers Mr. Lamb very part of the no Sir Robert Harry Inglis and . Ho Mr. Nicholson Calvert mirles Mr. Denison (Surrey) and to do Colonel Wood griefy and toob Mr. Charles Ross it sellimino Sir Henry Hardinge mibells mor Lord Hotham metro metro metro Mr. Bonham Carter need ave Colonel Davies atroquit erom at Mr. Hall Dare it it magnad IlaH . 1M Mr. Hawes niver qual ni of tross Mr. Attorney-General add to not Captain Dundas leidates odt bei Mr. Hume which solling to hilly Lord Granville Somerset.

The Select Committee appointed to inquire into the state of the Police of the Metropolis within the metropolitan district, and the state of crime therein - have agreed to the following report:

Your committee have found that the order of the House for their appointment, and for that of the committee appointed for a similar purpose in 1828, so much coincided as left no doubt that the object sought to be attained in their appointment had reference to " the mended by the former committee, to the consequences resulting from the partial adoption of the plan then suggested, and to the expediency of now carry ing it fully into effect; embracing, under either alternative, the consideration of any smodifications that the state of existing circumstances might seem to required new yould ned

Your committee considered it therefore incumbent on them to commence their investigation at the point at which the former committee closed their hbours, and by a review of all that has since occurred to show how far theexpectations then entertained by the House have been realized, as well as whether any unfavourable results have arisen; if so, to what cause they may he attributed, and what remedies ought to be applied aff mois

Although such an inquiry seemed to be that alone which was calculated to afford satisfaction, and to facilitate the adoption of improvements in the police, it was manifest that it could not be conducted to a favourable issue without the devotion to it on the part of the committee of much labour and protracted examinations of se

Your committee did not, however, hesitate to adopt such arrangement; and, with the view of rendering it complete, sedulously occupied themselves in examining into the original construction, and the subsequent arrangement and application, of the metropolitan police; into the establishments and duties of the magistrates and officers of the several police-offices, and the complaints of several parties who had presented petitions to the House, or who had requested permission to submit their objections to the existing system; and into the opinions of the magistrates and others, whose residences, habits, or professional avocations, had afforded them peculiar facilities and opportunities for observing and justly appreciating the state of the police within the metropolitan district; and moreover, into the foundation, extent, and effciency of the system of police existing within the jurisdiction of the city of

m. to arst-Tyng, raate to 55 reice

ich

12-

128

1. he

28 re ay

ht

to

to he e,

be

ie

)•

t;

eS

.

3

is ð

e

e

d which it was evidently the great tution have been affected. ject of the committee of 1828 ultiinto the matter of a petition of several polis, than at the present moment. persons, complaining that policemen are employed as spies, and praying that the people may not be taxed to maintain those spies of and the other the 11. of July, "To inquire into the conduct of the metropolitan police on the 13. of May last, finedis persing a public meeting in Cold bath-fields." Since your committee ould not shut their ears to the notorious act, that, in each case, not merely the onduct and characters of individuals ere questioned, but that the mainteance of such a force as the metroolitan police became, under its imputed nisconduct, a matter of serious consieration, it would have been a great ereliction of their duty finally to have losed their labours, until, by an exanination of the evidence adduced, and careful consideration of the judgment conounced in those cases, they should ave been able to state in their report, ow far the circumstances so deve-adon, and into the effect which its laid upon the table, and that at so late a clusive character would produce in period as the 6. of August; but in neierference with any attempt to esta- ther has your committee been furnished sh that uniformity which has been with the means of examining how far commended by all former committees, the fundamental principles of the insti-

Still labouring under this uncertainty, ately though gradually to accomplish. and having arrived at the very eve of the Your committee had made consider- prorogation, your committee consider le progress, when they found their themselves called upon to close their hich the preparation of returns and they regret that they cannot submit to cumulation of evidence occasioned, the House a detailed report, but they ut by the unexampled pressure of but trust that their determination will be ness before the House, necessarily oc- considered merely as a postponement of sioning the appointment of an unusual such an intention until the ensuing sesumber of committees, and requiring so sion, and will be sanctioned by the ap-uch of the attendance of members probation of the House, when assured to preclude the possibility of their that good reason is afforded to expect rsevering with dispatch in the prose- that (if permitted to resume their laition of this very extensive and im- bours) they shall, by an acquaintance ortant investigation. The hinderance, with the result of the other inquiries, owever, which has presented the most and by rendering their evidence more rmidable obstruction, has been the complete, be better able to express a pointment of two other committees : well-digested opinion upon each and e one on the loof July "To inquire every part of the police of the metro-

Relying upon the favourable disposition of the House to approve of and adopt the views entertained by your committee, they cautiously abstain from alluding to the amendments in the system of the metropolitan police which have been suggested to them, or to the far more important topic of what arrangements it may be expedient to resort to in improving the administration of the laws within the metropolis, and the establishment therein " of a plan of police which shall be exempt from the inconvenience which at present results from the independent and unconnected action of the several po" lice-offices and the other police esta-" blishments.

Your committee have directed their anxious attention to the alleged increase of expense attendant on the substitution of the metropolitan police for the old watch; but, from the reasons adverted to with reference to the completion of ped ought to weigh in prejudice of their report, they cannot venture to sugfavourable opinion hitherto enter-ned of the establishment. In one parts of the 10 Geo. IV. c. 44; by which aly of these cases has a report been is provided the revenue for the maintehowever, feel much concern should a mistaken apprehension prevail in the minds of members, that the representations of the many respectable bodies and individuals whose petitions were referred to the committee, had not received due attention. The reverse is so much the fact, and so convinced are the committee that this branch of the subject is worthy of the most serious consideration, that they beg in the strongest manner to represent that, on the re-appointment of the committee, it will be absolutely necessary to make the pecuniary branch of their inquiry the earliest object for consideration; and moreover, they recommend that such re-appointment should take place at the earliest period of the ensuing session, in order that the legislation necessary for giving effect to substantial and permanent ameliorations of the law should receive the consideration of Parliament, whilst sufficient leisure and opportunity for deliberate discussion may afford the best means of framing a judicious and equitable measure oftenper bus and and to

Although your committee have not brought their labours to a close, it may perhaps be expected that they should express some opinion as to the conduct and utility of the metropolitan police, as far as the evidence adduced before them has enabled them to form any opinion.

Subject, therefore, to the further information which may be elicited by the inquiries of the other committees above alluded to, your committee do not hesitate to state it as their opinion, that the evidence adduced before them has led them to think that the greatest economy is observed in every department of the metropolitan police; that very great and increasing care is taken in the selection of the individuals employed; and that on the whole, the conduct of the men has been very creditable to them.

Your committee can speak with unqualified praise of the manner in which the commissioners discharge the ardueus duties incident to their office; who, in every arrangement proceeding from however, feel much concern should a mistaken apprehension prevail in the minds of members, that the representations of the many respectable bodies and individuals whose petitions were re-

not legally competen

sary bonds of security of qua

TAOOLEGE STEES of e situa-

The Select Committee appointed to inquire into the truth of the allegations contained in the petitions of several Stationers and Manufactures of Paper, and of the thereundersigned Liverymen of London, and to report their observations thereupon to the House:

Have agreed to the following Report.

Your committee liave considered the petitions referred to them, and have examined several witnesses with reference to the allegations contained therein.

The petitions involve the consideration of two subjects; the first is the contract entered into, in June last, between the Stationery-office and Mr. Jonathan Muckleston Key; the second relates to the appointment of Mr. Kingsmill Grove Key to the situation of store-keeper of the Stationery-office.

With reference to the first subject it is alleged that Mr. Jonathan Muckleston Key was only the nominal contractor, while Sir John Key, being at the time of the presentation of the petitions a member of the House of Commons, was the real contractor. That Sir John Key was elected one of the members for the city of London in December 1832, and continued to be so until his acceptance of the Chiltern Hundreds on Monday the 5. of August, are facts so notorious that your committee deemed it unnecessary to examine with ussess to that point; but it appears from the evidence, that he had been concerned in several contracts for supplying paper to the Stationery-office previously to the year 1832, and that he was so concerned in his own name up to June 1832, but that in June 1832 and in June 1833, contracts were entered into in the name of Jonathan Muckleston Key, the brother of Sir John Key, the same person being sureties for the contracts of Sir John Key in 1831, and for the contracts in 1832 and

It is not in evidence that Mr. Jonatha Muckleston Key, whose residence is at Thorsbury in Gloucestershire, took any part in the execution of the contracts of 1832 and 1833, nor did he appear at the Stationery-office at any time, or for any other purpose than that designing the contracts and entering into the requisite securities. Sir John Key has taken the same part in all the details of the contracts of 1832 and 1833 as he did in that of 1831; the paper has been supplied from his stores, and delivered by his carts and wants; he generally brought the fills, denomin his brother's name, for acceptance, and me

0-

10-tle

est

be

-15

ort

e:

ed

-

ed

Ir.

e.

25

of

-

9. 10

ţ.

12

ived and made all the communications from nd to the office, which became necessary in erformance of the duty imposed by the con-

With reference to the second subject, it is ated by the petitioners, that Mr. Kingsmill rove Key is the nephew of the nominal and n of the real contractor; that he is a youth 18 or 19 years of age, not legally competent give the necessary bonds of security or quafied to perform the official duties of a situa-on requiring a knowledge of the stationery usiness, only to be obtained by experience.

From the evidence, it appears that it is the uty of the storekeeper to examine the stores they are received, to see that their quality nd quantity are comformalde to the contract, superintend their delivery to the offices reuiring them, to superintend and control the onduct of the different persons in his branch f the department, and to keep a store acount, for the accuracy of which he is answer-

The number of officers under the more imediate direction of the storekeeper will be ound in the appendix.

The storekeeper is accountable to the comproller, the head of the Stationery-office, for he quality of the stores received, and reports to him whether such stores be or be not equal to the samples. But Mr. Church, the comproller, states, that the exact degree of repossibility is not clearly defined, and that he he comptroller has in repeated instances inerfered to reject stores.

The value of the annual contract for paper (by far the largest item of expenditure) is about 60,000l., and the amount contracted for in the present year, in the name of Mr. Joha-than Key, exceeds 50,0001.

On the 26. June last, Mr. Lawrence, the late storekeeper, resigned his office, by a letter written by Mrs. Lawrence, in consequence of communication with her made by Mr. Church, the comptroller, that Mr. Lawrence's tate of health had represent him. tate of health had rendered him incompetent to the performance of his duties, which indeed he had not executed for some months previcertificates, Mr. Lawrence's resignation was not officially communicated to the Treasury till the l. of July, and Mr. Charles Wood, the Secretary of the Treasury, on the same day directed his private secretary, Mr. George Arbuthnot, to write the following letter to Mr. Church :-

Church:—
"My dear Sir,—Mr. Wood will be obliged to you if you will let him know the nature of the duties of storekeeper to the Stationery-office, and whether the place requires any peculiar qualifications in the person filling it.
"Yours truly,
"Grouge Ausurmor."
Mr. Church, upon the receipt of this letter, went to the Treasury, conceiving, as he states, that he could explain various particulars more natisfacturily by word of mouth than by letter, and in the hope of seeing Mr. Wood.

Having waited, however, for some time, Mr. Arbuthnot informed him, that Mr. Wood could not then see him, but that it would be the same thing if he would state the partieslars to him. Mr. Church then observed to Mr. Arbuthnot, that the persons who had been theretofore appointed storekeepers were generally worn-out stationers, too old to learn or unlearn, and, from the nature of their earlier occupation, persons who must have formed connexions with, and perhaps incurred obligations to, private stationers; so that, however pure their conduct might be in office, they were al-ways frable to imputations of partiality; he therefore expresed his opinion, that it would be a less evil if they could find a young man (and Mr. Arbuthnot states that the age of twenty-four was mentioned) not a stationer, who had an acquaintance with general busihess, who was of active habits, and who, if he gave up his whole time to it, might very soon become an efficient servant. Mr. Arbuthnot told Mr. Church, that he would communicate what he said to Mr. Wood, and that would be quite sufficient.

The substance of this conversation was communicated by Mr. Arbuthnot to Mr. Wood. Sir John Key, having heard of the vacancy, applied on the 1. of July to Lord Grey, for the situation of storekeeper for his son; and by the evidence of Mr. Wood and Sir John Key, it appears, that about the 4. July, Mr. Wood wrote a letter to Sir John Key, informing him that Lord Grey would appoint his son, and requesting to know his name and age.

This letter, and others connected with this subject (but, as he states, of an unimportant character), Sir John Key destroyed the day after the petitions against him were presented to the House of Commons. Sir John Key called on Mr. Wood, and (as stated by Mr. Wood) informed him that he had two sons, one about eighteen, and the other about twentytwo years of age, and that it would be more convenient to him that the younger son should be appointed to the place. Mr. Wood stated, that he thought the age would be objectionable, but that he would make inquiry; and he then directed Mr. Atbuthnot to write a letter to Mr. Church, of which the following is a copy:

"My dear Sir,-I am desired to inquire
" of you, whether there would be any objection to the appointment of a young man of "nineteen to the situation of a young man of nineteen to the situation of storekeeper. It appears to me that so young a person would not be able to exercise sufficient authority over the people he will have to superintend. (Signed) "G. Arbuthsor." This tester was written and received on the 9. of July; and Mr. Church says, that he wrote a reply while the bearer of the letter waited, but kept so copy of his reply, as he considered the communication private; but he added, I have it fully, thoroughly, and completely in my memory, and the letter itself will be found at the Treasury, and aill show how far I am correct in my statement; he out the appointment of Mr. Kingsmill Grove then repeated the letter, as follows:

" My dear Sir,-The storekerper of this office has to give securities, sign bonds, and "to execute many other securities, for which in non-age would disqualify him. Perhaps you may not be aware how much this office " is watched; the same description of persons deal with us, as deal with the proprietors " of newspapers: I will only refer to a para" graph in the Age of last Sunday, which " stated that Sir John Key, a contractor (which, by-the-by, he is not); has applied to " of his. I merely state this, to show how " necessary it is to be cautious; and that to a " situation like this, it is expedient to appoint " a man who not only is fit, but who will appear to be fit to others." day a line Mr. Church's recollection of this letter is substantially confirmed by Mr. Arbuthnot.

The paragraph referred to, but not inserted in the letter, is in the Age newspaper of 7. July, and is as follows: " Under the 'cor-" rupt system," a member of Parliament could " not he a public contractor, or supply the Government with goods as a tradesman; " but it seems the reformed Parliament has " corrected this mistake, for the city minis-" is the principal contractor for supplying the "Government with paper. This is not all: there has, within these few days, occurred a " vacancy in the Stationery-office, occasioned " by the resignation of the storekeeper; and " Sir John Key has used his influence at the "Treasury in favour of a friend, who is to be " (or perhaps is by this time) appointed his st successor. It will be the day of this indi-" vidual to examine the goods sent into the office by his patron. We hope Mr. Hume will look into this."

Mr. Wood, in consequence of this letter, saw Sir John Key, and informed him that it must be his eldest son, because the person to be appointed should be of age; and Sir John Key then gave him the name of Kingsmilt Grove Key, for the appointments Sir John Key admits that he did deceive Mr. Wood as to his son's age, giving Mr. Wood to understand that his son was of age, and leaving him under that impression.

Sir John Key states, and he is confirmed by Mr. Wood, that at this interview an extract of the letter from Mr. Church, of the 9. July, with reference to the necessity of the store-keeper being above the age of twenty-one, and having onerous duties to perform, was read. It appears further, that Mr. Wood asked Sir John Key if he had seen the paragraph in the Age newspaper: his reply was, "I have heard of it; but I never pay any attention to "what the Age says, and it is a prima fucie evidence of the falsehood of a stutement,

Key on this same letter of Mr. Church, of the 9. of July, and gave it to Mr. Arbuthnot; from whose evidence it appears that when Mr. Wood gave him the order for the appointment, he said, "We are going to do this in spite of Church." The appointment having been completed, the letter was destroyed. Mr. Arbuth not states, that he considered that it was private answer to a mere letter of inquir, and the purpose for which the inquiry as made being at an end, he considered that there was no further necession for it. Mr. Wood, when asked what he intended by this apression, supposing he used it, says, "Sir John Key has constantly been the subject of attack in some of the Sunday newspaper, to this attack was repeated on the occasion of the Sunday had a this appointment, and Mr. Church had al-" luded to it. My own impression was, that Mr. Church was, for some reason, advers to the appointment; and what I meant to " say was, that I did not mean to be deterred from appointing Mr. Kingsmill Grove key by the remonstrances in a Sunday new-paper, allowed to by Mr. Church." Mr. Wood further states, that in Mr. Church's letter of the 9. of July, he only attended to the point of the age of Sir John Key's son, and not to the supposed connexions between the Stationery-office and Sir John Key, as mettioned in the newspaper, nor does he recolled that Mr. Church, in the same letter, stated that caution was necessary. He adds, that knowing Sir John Key could not sit in Parliament as a contractor, "I did not pay the slightest attention to that, because it seemed evidence, Mr. Wood denies all knowledged Sir John Key having been, previously to his being in Parliament, connected with the Stationery office, although he knew he was a stationer. It appears, from the evidence of Mr. Church, that the names of the contractors are not transmitted to the Treasury; and Mr. Wood states, in his evidence, "If any papers relating to the contract came to the Treasury at all, they certainly could not come to me; I am not " certainly could not come to me; I am b "certain whether they would come to the "Treasury at all, but they certainly would not come to me." Mr. Church states, that at the time of writing the letter of the 9. of July he perfet July, he was not aware who was the person referred to of 19 years of age, but that a fee days afterwards Sir John Key called on him, and said that a relation of his and of Mr. Jost than Muckleston Key had been appointed to the office of storekeeper; on which Ma Church observed that he must take some precaution to prevent the examination by him the stores sent in by virtue of the contract of Mr. Jonathan Key. Sir John Key replies, "I suggested that to the Treasury, and they said you would be able to do it." And it further said, "I stated to the Treasury that that it appears in the Age."

There was an Age newspaper on the table at further said, "I stated to the Treasury this interview.

Mr. Wood wrote a memorandum to make "his contract, I meant to leave the stated to the stated to the Treasury as a soon as ever my brother had comple "his contract, I meant to leave the stated to the Treasury as a soon as ever my brother had comple to the table at the stated to the Treasury as a soon as ever my brother had comple to the table at the table usiness." Sir John Key says that he did apeak to the Treasury on this subject, and his belief that the Treasury were totally brant of his brother being a contractor. Church was not aware at that time that person appointed was a son of Sir Juhn, but, becoming acquainted with the fact we days afterwards at the Treasury, he obved to Mr. Arbuthnut "that the appointment would make a devil of a ruw." Mr. arch says subsequently up his evidence. "I de use of the expression so often," and mg asked, whether before or after the appointment, adds, "It would be before and er, I have no doubt." Air, Church, in anor part of his evidence, says, "I supposed very thing I said to Mr. Arbuthnut would go to Mr. Wood; there were many things I certainly had stated in conversation, which perhaps I should have been a little cautious of putting down in a letter." The appointment was completed on the 16, of July.

Du the 17. July, Sir John Key introduced son, on his appointment, to Mr. Church; to said it would be part of his, Mr. Kings-ill Grove Key's duty, as storekeeper, to in ect the goods sent in under the contract of uncle, and that therefore he, Mr. Church, d the chief clerk, would undertake the in-ction, as a matter of decency. And accord-560 of the

Mr.

comouthvas a

Diry,

there

luod,

Sir

pers, on of d al-

that verse at to

Key ens-

Mr.

ch's

the

and the nen-lect

ated that lia-

the med his

ed

his

Sta-

. .

pce

in hey

the not er

Mr.

d

gly all the goods sent, in under the contract the so inspected.

Mr. Wood in his evidence, atates, that on inday, the 28. July, Lord Althorp, and on the ext day, Lord Grey, informed, him that Lord lithorp had received a letter, referring to ree points connected with this appointment; it, That Mr. Key, the uncle, was a connector; 2d, That Mr. Kingsmill Grove Key and to examine the paper, sent in by that nele; 3d, That Mr. Kingsmill Grove Key as under age. Mr. Wood sent for Mr. Arathnot, and asked if he believed these things irretrue; Mr. Arbuthnot replied that be beeved they were. On the same day, Mr. food wrote to Sir John Key, telling, him not the appointment must be put an cud to in Thursday, the 1. of August, Sir John Key aformed Mr. Church that his son had reigned. On the same day, Mr. Arbuthnot alled on Mr. Church, and told him that Mr. Charles Wood wished to know what would be he best way of withdrawing the appointment of Mr. Kingsmill Grove Key. Mr. Church mited on Mr. Wood the same afternoon at he Treasury, and the appointment was ortered to be cancelled. Mr. Church further dds, that at this interview with Mr. Charles Wood, on the 1. of August (the only internew he had with him), he told him he thought to ill consequences would ensue, nor any harge be made, owing to the appointment of fr. Kingsmill Key, and that to prevent all wil, he had taken the examination out of the lands of the young man. Mr. Wood's reply as, "Yes, I have heard that you proposed to lands." These were (as stated by Mr. Church) usiness." Sir John Key says that he did the words, " he did not express any approba-

From the evidence of Mr. Arbuthnot, it appears that the impression on his mind, previously to the 9. July, was, that Sir John Key was concerned in the contract with the Stationery-office; and that this impression was confirmed by Mr. Church's letter of that date. Both Mr. Church and Mr. Arbuthnot were of opinion that Sir John Key was concerned in the contract, but that opinion was not communicated by them to Mr. Wood.

Mr. Arbuthnot says with reference to Mr. Key's appointment, "Mr. Church told me privately that heconsidered it objectionable." Being asked, "Did he say it would produce a devil of a row, or some such expression as that?" he replies, "I dare say he may have said so;" it was before the appointment was completed, but after the order for its being made out had been given. Mr. Arbuthnot further states, that Mr. Church did not state his objections for the purpose of his mentioning them to Mr. Wood, and he conceived he wished him not to do so, because, as the appointment had been made, it might have been considered obtrusive on his (Mr. Church's) part; and that Mr. Church's impression was, that he had already done his duty to the Treasury, by stating, in his letter to Mr. Arbuthnot, that great caution was necessary in making such an appointment; and, indeed, Mr. Arbuthnot supposed Mr. Wood was aware of all this before, for he says, "I thought Mr. "Wood was aware of all that; it appears he was not."

Mr. Arbuthnot adds, that he thought Mr. Wood had been in communication both with Mr. Church and Sir Julin Key, previous to the appointment, and therefore that he had got all the information he considered necessary; and Mr. Arbuthnot being also under the impression that there was a difference with regard to the appointment, between Mr. Church and the Treasury, that on that account it was a delicate subject to mention to Mr. Wood, after the appointment had been completed.

Upon the first subject referred to in the petition, your committee do not feel called upon to offer any opinion, in consequence of Sir John Key having vacated his seat in Parliament.

Upon the second, your committee have thought the most advisable course was to present, without observations or comment, the foregoing summary of the evidence, and to recommend the whole of the evidence itself to the perusal and attention of the House.

POPAY AND THE POLICE.

Turs subject has drawn forth the following article in the Examiner of the 25. instant, and a correspondent has sent me the very able answer to it, which will be found at the end of the Exa- | conniving at Popay's practices, but we do beminer's article. In another part of this Register will be found, the reports of the two committees, one, the CAL-THORPE-STREET committee; and the bas been conceitedly boasted in the Home other, the general conduct and management of the police committee. What! two committees in the House of Commons at the same time, on the affairs quiet country, who permits the employment of this police!!! Scolding wife, smoky spies upon sedition, is answerable for all the of this police!!! Scolding wife, smoky house, bastard child, indeed! What are all these to this accursed spy-police ! I have not much experience in such matters, thank God; but I would rather have two bastards, and two litters of bastards, and even the two mothers, both at me with claws and tongue, at one and the same time, than be in a town and be plagued with this accursed police. Keep the PEACE, indeed, as Mr. Estcourt calls it! Keep the strife and the danger and the scratching and the fighting and the knocking on the head! And the people in the country are to pay sixty thousand pounds are the half dozen men who were discovered they, for keeping the peace of the metropolis! I have not room for any more at present; and, if I had, I could not proceed, for I am absolutely choked with rage at the thought.

Ministers admit that the case against Popay is completely proved, and yet they allege that there is not sufficient ground for a prosecution, and think they have done enough in dismissing him from the police. The Solicitor-General affected to consider the censures which had been delivered in the House as so much punishment to the offender, " and hoped it would be seen that all it was necessary to do had been done." The all that has been done in the case of Popay, the treacherous insti-gator to crime, is of the same amount as that which has been done in the case of Dean, who expressed his abhorrence at the Spafields' outrages; the difference simply is, that Popay was not dismissed till after a careful and deliberate inquiry, and that Dean was summarily discharged. In what other instance, of a man in Popay's class, have the censures of speakers in Parliament been held tantamount to punishment? When was so childish a pretext allowed to serve any one of the people who had offended against Government? The clemency in this case cannot be misunderstood. There can be no doubt that Popay's lieve that his strange pranks of authority have proceeded upon the exaggerated representations of the spy. An intimate knowledge of what was passing among the working-classes, Office, and for this supposed knowledge there must have been channels such as Popay. A prosecution would trace them up. The disgrace would be merited. A minister of this vile consequences: and it is as certain that he will be made a fool, as the instrument a villain.

We heartily agree with Mr. Cobbett, that an instigator should be punished as if he had sincerely entertained the seditious designs to which he was treacherously inciting others. Upon what ground can an impunity be permitted to the treasonable persuasions of a particular individual? To extend such an impunity is to imply a privity to the guilty practice. Had the exciting language proved against Popay, been proved against one of the people, who will believe that the unlucky party would have escaped punishment, and that the Solicitor-General would have held justice satisfied, for sooth, with Parliamentary censures? The absurd proceedings against practising with wooden swords, show that it is neither rationality nor magnanimity, that causes this Government to overlook any semblance of seditious intention: then why is a detected prescher of sedition allowed to go unprosecuted? What procures his especial and peculiar impunity? It will not be said that he acted under directions; and if he did not act under directions, how is his sham from real treason! Dean was discharged for reprobating the Spafields brutalities. was it that Popay was not discharged for seditious suggestions? His talk was reported; and if there was no privity, no connivance, how happened it that no notice was taken by his superiors of an offence so much gravet than Dean's? If they knew that he was acting a part, they connived at his guilt; if they did not know that he was acting a part, how came it that no cognizance was had of his conduct? Had he preached open and instant rehellion, no one is simple enough to believe that a secretary of state's warrant would have been issued against him. The fair way of trying the case is this-Had any sincere malcontent said and done as Popay said and did, would he have escaped the notice of the Home Office?

The employment of spies for the discovery of sedition is (as we have before contended) to be condemned, because, sedition being unfrequent, the spy has to produce it, or the sp Home Office, and Lord Melbourne must have had some notion how he came by it. We do not for a moment suspect Lord Melbourne of that any out-breaking of sedition; and few ment's apprehension of it, which is sure to to the most vexatious, mean, and unby proceedings. A jealous man taking y mouse that stirs in his wife's chamber gallant, is respectable compared with a us Government, prying and spying into and corners for plots against its exist-be just judgment against political spies is however, to be allowed to run against the upon crimes against property and life, ch is the watch of justice, and nothing can ore absurd than the clamour against the loyment of the police in plain clothes for ping an eye upon thieves. One moment quarrel with the police is their uniform, th makes them resemble a gendarmerie, endarmes wear blue clothes, and the force blue coats; and the next moment the ge is that they wear plain clothes—so did Bow-street runners of old-but every body them, it is observed—so much the worse onest men, we answer, as the rogues were on their guard, and forewarned to remove ots safer for their depredations. An honest cannot suffer any possible annoyance from presence of a disguised thieftaker, and as e thieves, we recognise no obligation to them warning that they are watched. tever tends to their insecurity, tends to safety of the public. Abuses have existed of "blood money," induced by an impolaw, are yet remembered, but the villains not liable to the reproach of uniforms gendarmerie," they were the old officers superseded system. Nothing so horrible his is chargeable against the new police, many of the declamations against it turn considerations which would almost argue mpathy with the large fraternity of the es. It may be, though we havenever wited it, that the police exercise their authotoo rudely and vexatiously towards the ble classes; and if the fact be so, and we heard it stated by unprejudiced authority, re becoming conduct should be promptly ced. The appointments are probably not ys regulated by the most proper considens, and too many raw boys and choleric men are employed; but this evil would remedied by the suggestion of Colonel s to give control to the local authorities management was so amply exemplified efficiency of the old watch force from the of Shakspeare to the last hour cried by feeble guardians of the night. Of all ng, there is no jobbing like parish job-Let the people set about securing the s of good government, and they will have ng to fear from the power of the police in asible hands. A sword may be turned to but for that reason we don't cry out for suse of swords, but endeavour to govern ands that may wield them. A police, like my, or any other power of Government, be made an instrument of tyranny, but gs are to be more apprehended than a Go-I that does not prove that the thing is bad, but that the people endure a system in which the proper responsibility is wanting. So long as the people are jealous of the instruments in the hands of Government, they are reproachable with suffering a vicious constitution, and mistaking the objects of dissatisfaction. Never should they rest till the Government is their Government, and then its powers can no more be a matter of apprehension than the vigour of a man's arm can be formidable to his own flesh. The enlightened Radical reformer does not set about substituting for the sword of the executive a dagger of lath powerless for good or ill, but to bring the hand that holds the sharp instrument under control is his bold and all comprehensive object.

> Abuses, however, in the police are not to be neglected by the friends of the establishment, nor must faults be denied which are truly charged by its enemies, or redress be withheld as we have information in the present case.

We have always been of opinion, that the appointment and dismissal of public officers should not rest in the same authority, unless it be popular election; a twofold justice may be attained by the separation-the individual is more secure that he will not be displaced, to make way for a new favourite, and the public has a better chance that delinquents will be dismissed, when their misconduct merits that punishment. The late discussions and complaints of the new police may elucidate this point. We are known to have been friendly to the institution of this force, as a great improvement on the old and corrupt system of parochial jobbing; nay, we have incurred some unpopularity, by opposing ourselves to the prejudices which the unthinking and the unprincipled have urged against it; but we will not defend its vices; and the first signs that the new is falling into the ways of the old institution, are our signal for vigilance. We hear, that in numerous instances, the commissioners have refused reparation to those who have been injured or insulted by the police; and in some cases, where they have ap-peared to have punished the offenders, it turns out that they have only been removed to another district. We trace this evil, in the first instance, to the undue influences which in this country are always exerted to obtain appointments; and then to the want of publicity in the proceedings of the commissioners when hearing complaints. We all remember, that the town was in a state of public canvass when Sir R. Peel's bill first came ito operation ; you could not pass Howell and James's without having half a dozen heads thrust out at you-"Do you know Colonel Rowan? Oh, do you know Mr. Mayne? I want to get my man John, and our tenant's boy, poor Terence O'Donougho, into the new police." And the same influence that got thom in, will keep them in. Terence may be as lawless in Pall Mall, as he had been in Connamara; and John as insolent at Charing-cross, as his brethren of the shoulder-knot usually are at the doors of the Opera house. The favourites of the marchioness will not be called to any very strict account, unless they commit some outrage, so notorious, that public attention is called to it by the reports from Bow-street. The magistrates of the public offices should have the power of dismissal, or at least the power of suspension, till the case can be more fully, and above all publicly investigated. The other day a police constable, who, in plain clothes, had partially interfered in a squabble at the door of a common gambling house, took two men into custody for no other offence than following him to ascertain whether he was really a policeman or no. The case is the more important too as it is pregnant with a suspicion that some of the police are in league with the higher order of hells, the owners of which are well known to pay well for intelligence or protection. All this must be looked into, and we are therefore glad to find that the political misconduct of the spy Popay, and his employers, is likely to provoke the investigation.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,-The ravings of the Tory press, or the self-complaisant shuffling of the Whig writers, are of little consequence to the friends of liberty; those gentlemen only labour in their vocations, and may be safely left to earn their bread as they can. But when a paper like the Examiner, distinguished as it is, by a long and consistent support of the cause of the people, accidentally drops into the advocacy of measures dear to the supporters of despotism, it becomes necessary carefully to a certain whether the spirit of despotism has changed its nature, or the liberal advocate has fallen into error. It is with this conviction that I take the liberty of animadverting on your article on the police of Sunday last, that article being one of many in which you have advocated the new system, and as the time has now arrived when the new police must be either perma-neutly fixed, essentially changed, or entirely got rid of, it is absolutely necessary that all the friends of liberty should act with judgment and energy arising from a well-digested knowledge of the subject.

I perfectly agree with all you say in the three first paragraphs, and I join issue with you on the fourth, beginning, "the just judgment against political spies," &c. This paragraph, in my humble opinion, grossly misstates the question, and blinks, entirely blinks the real objections to the police. It is not, sir, that the police wear blue coats like gendarmes, or that they wear plain clothes like the Bowstreet runners of old—these are minor matters. Nor is it that they are disguised thieftakers, or undisguised thieftakers; for I rather suspect that the disguise makes but little difference to the thief, whose very existence compels him to watch the police more than any police watches him, in order that he may obtain an intimate knowledge of his would-be detectors, dressed or undressed & the real question is this-Is it wholesome for a country having an hereditary executive, only partially held in check by institution only partially democratic, to have within itel a political standing army, appointed, officered and solely controlled by the executive power that this body should mix with the people as secretly report to the executive, and that, to, with the knowledge that the people will have no opportunity of detecting the truth or lake hood of the reports—the number and importance of such secret reports being the one evidence to the executive of the reporter's about lity and consequent claim to preferment in the force? These are the joints to be considered; and these are the points of resemblance be tween the new police of England and the gendarmerie of France; and I must say that if we were to call the Commissioners Les Commissioners saires, and the Secretary of State Lieutenant de Police, the resemblance would, in my humble opinion, be sufficiently complete.

But now, sir, let us go to the workings the new system. You say we have no block-money enormity under the present system. Wait a little, my dear sir, and you will have plenty, for the organization of the force is just of the description to produce it; but we must recollect it is yet only four years old, and the many, many four years passed under the day system without any such enormity being thought of. But are we even now so cleared blood. blood as you congratulate yourself? Wa there no blood shed in Calthorpe-street, ad are you quite sure that there were no Popun concerned in producing it? The committed the House of Commons may pass this after over as fightly as they please, and the public, for want of sufficient information, may ac-quiesce in the quietude; but if you will take the trouble to inquire in the neighbourhood Calthorpe-street, you will find that it was me triffing matter; and what it might have been if the people had been so imprudent as in have resisted, and the already prepared mile tary had come up, I leave to be guessed at we those who watched the progress of the affirm and the ultimate object intended to be attained O, but say you! this was not blood shed by means of a court of justice. Why as to this, Furzey had an intelligent jury, and fortunale for him the Popay plot was blown between his apprehension and his trial, or it is not impossible we might have had a little of that too. But however, look at the published evidence Mr. Young's petition; look at the police of stimulating his victims to provide arms to provide learn the use of arms—look at him hinting the assassination of a Minister of Surthen look at him reporting his victims to the Secretary of State; look at him receiving proferment as a consequence of his double me lany, and ask yourself if there is any rease able ground to doubt that he would have se up to the mark in a court of justice if calls upon to do so.

But the old system was very bad-lately

haps it was. There was a deal of jobbing; pathy with the large fraternity of thieves," and of all jobbing there is no jobbing like and remain, sh-jobbing,"-granted. I at least will aderrate parish jobbing and its baleful t on every thing within its managements. who is chargeable with these evils? Why Government, and the Government only. ancient local institutions produced no job-I, and the open vestry, were the healthful

4 too, are in the new test ed;

be-larne nis-nis-

my of sol-em.

ave jed

that is a

Was.

ani

an e di ic.

ac-ake

100 ees

中國新國軍司 na's tely his

9 9 9

中中

1. 五十十七三

tutions of freedom, productive at once of rity to property at small expense, and stitutional vigour at no expense at all.

Boroughmongers were jealous of these stiful reliques of Anglo-Saxon wisdom; discountenanced and brought them into empt; they let the parish constable odle into the mercenary substitute; the ch and ward into the decrepit Charlies; sturdy, freedom-creating, cheap, open ry, into the expensive, jobbing, secret, et vestry; and all this was done that they ht say-See what nuisances these things let us destroy them, and take the go-ment of all into our own hands.

It, from the days of Alfred the glorious, those of George the sensualist, have the perty and peace of the towns of England under the protection of the householders? it surely was not too much to expect from Editor of the Examiner, that he would be treated with some respect the system chi had answered the purpose of our anters for so many centuries. It was not the too much to expect of a political reasonable too much to expect of a political reasonable too much to expect of a political reasonable too. ely too much to expect of a political rea-er that he would have selected some facts n the historians of so long a period to jushis attack on local watching, and not econtented himself with a reference to a matic author as his only authority. But, meagre as is your authority, it does not ryou out in your deduction: Shakspeare rges Dogberry and his colleagues with no ficiency in watching: on the contrary, he ficiency in watching; on the contrary, he refull testimony to their entire and active ciency, for he shows them detecting that t which had deceived the whole court, inding an auxious father (the sovereign of t court), and an acute ardent lovers. It is t, Shakspeare ridicules the language and mmatic correctness of the town watch, but their efficiency in action, for he knew how iscriminate between words and things, and would be very desirable that writers of a r date would endeavour to attain the same wledge, we should not then see young tlemen of the press, who write much, but arently read little, and think still less, ling upon us in their off-hand way, to put the institutions of Alfred, and offering no ter reason for our doing so, than a refer-te to the cuckoo cry of Dugberry and the tries.

subjoin my name and address, not only ause I dislike anonymous writing, but beue I do not wish to encounter the new tument of the Examiner to those who differ

Sir, Your constant reader, GEORGE ROGERS. 58, High-street, St. Giles,

and above al From the LONDON GAZETTE,

FRIDAY, AUGUST 23, 1833.

Motor of Di . INSOLVENT.

CORP, W., Great Tower-street, carpenter.

BANKRUPTCY SUPERSEDED.

HUNT, J. T., Princes street, Lambeth, bone-

BANKRUPTS.

MILLER, D., Bristol, druggist. ROBERTS, W., Batley, Yorkshire, druggist.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 27, 1833.

INSOLVENT.

HOWARD, J., St. Mary-at-Hill, victualler.

BANKRUPTS.

DEAN, T., Manchester, victualler. DIMSDALE, T. 1., Trinity - square, corn-

FOWLER, A. E., Liverpool, merchant. GATELY, M, Birmingham, v ctualler. HEATHCOTE, M., and J., Manchester, mer-

JACKSON, J., O'd City Chambers, Bishopsgate-within, jeweller and watch-maker. PATCH, J., Exeter, hop merchant. PATCHETT, J., Liverpool, saddler and harness-maker.

ROBERTS, H., Chirk, Denbighshire, draper.
ROBERTS, T., Liverpool, and J. Roberts, Holywell, Flintshire, ironmongers.
THOMPSON, J., Liverpool, grocer.
WRIGHT, W. Heathfield, Sussex, dealer and chapman.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

PERRY, J. C., Peterhead, miller. SEATER, P., jun , Periowall, in the Island of Westray, Orkney, merchant.

LONDON MARKETS.

MARK-LANE, CORN-EXCHANGE, Aug. 26.— We had a fair supply of Wheat from Essex and Suffolk, but moderate from Kent. The samples were principally of this year's growth, and differed much in quality; those from Suffolk were cold; from Kent they varied considerably; and from Essex, though some parcels were fine, yet the runs generally proved thin. The better descriptions expensed it is opinion, viz. the charge of "a sym-rienced an improved sale, as compared with last Monday, and the previous currency was fully maintained. In secondary and stale old descriptions little doing, and difficult to be disposed of, unless by submitting to lower rates. Nothing transacting in bonded grain.

Barley comes to hand very sparingly, and prices of grinding continue firm.

Malt dull, and nominally the same as last

Oats were in good supply. Fine old qualities were in demand at fully former rates. Other descriptions, both English and Irish, a slow sale at Monday's currency.

Good hard Beans remained scarce, and are worth fully 1s. per qr. more money than this day week.

White as well as grey and maple Peas were

1s. per qr. dearer.

The supply of Ship Flour is scarcely sufficient for our demand, owing to the long continued drought; prices are in consequence very steady. Norfolk, 42s. to 44s. Kent and Suffolk, 42s. to 46s. Irish, 42s. to 44s. Town made in fair request, and top quotation 50s. to 52s.; extra, 53s.

Wheat	58s.	to	64s.
Rye	30s.	to	32s.
Barley fine
Peas, White	315.	to	34s.
- Boilers	38s.	to	425.
Grey	30s.	to	33s.
Beans, Small	-s.	to	-s.
Tick	30s.	to	336.
Oats, Potato	224.	to	24s.
Feed	16s.	to	20s.
Flour, per sack	50s.	to	52s.

PROVISIONS.

Pork, Iudia, news. to 110s. day to
- Mess, new 60s. to 62s. 6d. per barl.
Butter, Belfast s. to -s. ner ewt.
Carlows. tos.
Cork74s, to 75s.
- Limerick 75s. to 76s.
Waterford74s. to 76s, and and Dublin-s. to -s.

SMITHFIELD, August 26.

This day's supply of Beasts, Sheep, Lambs, and Calves, though not so great as was that of this day se'nnight, was rather numerous, but in great part, particularly as relates to the former, of middling and inferior quality. The supply of Porkers was limited. Prime small Beef sold with some degree of briskness, at an advance, in some instances, of 2d. per stone; but with other kinds of Beef, as also Mutton, Lamb, Veal, and Pork, trade was very dull, at Friday's quotations.

At least three fourths of the Beasts were about equal numbers of short horns, Devons, Welsh runts, and Irish Beasts; and the remainder about equal numbers of Sccts and Herefords, with, perhaps, about 100 Town's end Cows, a few Sussex Beasts, Staffords, & The Devons, runts, short-horns, and Irid Beasts, with a considerable number of the Scots, chiefly from Lincolnshire, Leicestershire, and Northamptonshire; but a few the different breeds, from our midland and western, districts, Norfolk, Suffolk, Kut, Sussex, and Surrey; with about 200, in dition to the Town's end Cows, from the Leicester don marshes.

About four-sixths of the Sheep appeared to be new Leicesters, of the South Down at white-faced crosses, in the proportion of about two of the former to five of the latter; about a sixth South Downs, and the remaining sixth about equal numbers of old Leicester, polled Norfolks, Kents, and Kentish habbreds, with a few pens of old Lincolns, Some sets, Dorsets, and horned Norfolks, house and polled Scotch and Welsh Sheep, &c.

Full four-fiths of the Lambs appeared to be about equal numbers of South Downs at new Leicesters; the latter, for the most put, of the Downish cross; the remaining fifth Dorsets, with a few Somersets, Kents, and Kentish half-breds, &c.

MARK-LANE.-Friday, August 30.

The arrivals this week are short. The prices remain the same as on Monday.

adeit as plain as, I believe,

RECEVERED BLECK

.. Also of the keeping of

3 per Cent. } Fri. Sat. Mon. Tues. Wed. The Cons. Aun. } 883 883 884 89 8

COBBETT-LIBRARY.

New Edition.

COBBETT'S Spelling-Book

Containing, besides all the usual matters such a book, a clear and concise INTRODUCTION TO ENGLISH GRAMMAR

This I have written by way of

A Stepping-Stone to my own

such a thing having been frequently surgested to me by Teachers as necessary.

- 1. ENGLISH GRAMMAR.—Of the work sixty thousand copies have now be published. This is a duodecimo yolume, at the price is 3s. bound in boards.
- 2. An ITALIAN GRAMMAR,
 Mr. James Paul Connett.—Being a Plant Compendious Introduction to the State of Italian. Price 65.

TULL'S HORSE-HOEING BANDRY; or, a Treatise on the Prinof Tillage and Vegetation. With an Instion, by WM. COBBETT. 8vo. Price 15s.

de de

a d

· 春年月至 mi

hest host

ning ten, halfnetdb and part,

fith

The

er d

AL

SUE

THE EMIGRANT'S GUIDE.

ow Published, under this Title, a little ne, containing Ten Letters, addressed to the Tax-payers. A new edition, with a cript, containing an account of the Prices uses and Land, recently obtained from the nice by Mr. Cobbett. Price 2s. 6d. in bds.

THE WOODLANDS; or, a Treathe preparing of the ground for planton the planting, on the cultivating, on uning, and on the cutting down, of Forees and Underwoods. Price 14s. bound ards.

YEAR'S RESIDENCE IN AME-.—The Price of this book, in good print in fine paper, is 5s.—admin to the paper

FRENCH GRAMMAR; or, Plain netions for the Learning of French. Price, d in boards, 5s.

COTTAGE ECONOMY.—I wrote Work professedly for the use of the lang and middling classes of the English n. I made myself acquainted with the and simplest modes of making beer and land these I made it as plain as, I believe, a could make it. Also of the keeping of Pigs, Bees, and Poultry, matters which lerstood as well as any body could, and I their details. It includes my writings on the Straw Plait. A Duodecimo Vo-

- 10. POOR MAN'S FRIEND. A new
- 1. THE LAW OF TURNPIKES.
 William Cobbett, Jun., Student of LinInn. Price 3s. 6d. boards.
- 2. ROMAN HISTORY, French and ish, intended, not only as a History for ag People to read, but as a Book of Exerto accompany my French Grammar. Volumes. Price 13s. in boards.
- 3. PAPER AGAINST GOLD; or, History and Mystery of the National Debt, Bank of England, the Funds, and all the kery of Paper Money. The Price of this t, very nicely printed, is 5s.
- 4. MARTENS'S LAW OF NA-NS.—This is the Book which was the dation of all the knowledge that I have possessed relative to public law. The e is 17s., and the manner of its execution is ink, such as to make it fit for the Library my Gentleman.

15. MR. JAMES PAUL COBBETT'S RIDE OF EIGHT HUNDRED MILES IN FRANCE. Second Edition. Price 2s. 6d.

16. LETTERS FROM FRANCE: containing Observations made in that Country during a Residence of Two Months in the South, and Three Months at Paris. By John M. Cobbett. Price 4s. in boards.

17. SERMONS.—There are twelve of these, in one volume, on the following subjects: 1. Hypocrisy and Cruelty; 2. Drankenness; 3. Bribery; 4. Oppression; 5. Unjust Judges; 6. The Sluggard; 7. The Murderer; 8. The Gamester; 9. Public Robbery; 10. The Unnatural Mother; 11. The Sin of Forbidding Marriage; 12. On the Duties of Parsons, and on the Institution and Object of Tithes, Price 3s. 6d. bound in boards.

A Thirteenth Sermon, entitled "GOOD FRIDAY; or, The Murder of Jesus Christ by the Jews." Price 6d.

18. A TREATISE ON COBBETT'S CORN; containing Instructions for Propagating and Cultivating the Plant, and for Harvesting and Preserving the Crop; and also an account of the several uses to which the Produce is applied. Price 50

19. PROTESTANT "REFORMA-TION" in England and Ireland, showing how that event has impoverished and degraded the main body of the people in those countries. Two volumes, bound in boards. The Price of the first volume is 4s. 6d. The Price of the second volume 3s. 6d.

Just published, price 6s. a new edition of the

ENGLISH GARDENER,

OR,

A TREATISE

On the Situation, Soil, Enclosing and Laying-Out of Kitchen Gardens; on the Making and Managing of Hot-beds and Green-Houses; and on the Propagation and Cultivation of all sorts of Kitchen-Garden Plants, and of Fruit-Trees whether of the Garden or the Orchard.

AND ALSO,

On the Formation of Shrubberies and Flower-Gardens; and on the Propagation and Cultivation of the several sorts of Shrubs and Flowers;

CONCLUDING WITH

A KALENDAR,

Giving instructions relative to the Sowings, Plantings, Prunings, and other labours, to be performed in the Gardens, in each Month of the Year.

BY WILLIAM COBBETT.

Just published, price 10s. 6d.

A NEW

FRENCH AND ENGLISH DICTIONARY.

In two parts. Part I. French and English .-Part II. English and French. By WILLIAM COBBETT, M.P. for Oldham.

THE CURSE

OF

PAPER MONEY AND BANKING,

Or, a short History of Banking in the United States of America, with an account of its ruinous effects on Landowners, Farmers, Traders, and on all the industrious classes of the community.

By W. M. Gouce, of Philadelphia, in 1833.

To which is pressed an Introduction by WM. Cobbett, M.P., for Oldham. Price 4s. 11, Bolt-court, Fleet-street, and all Booksellers.

This day is published, price Three-pence,

DOPAY, the NEW POLICE SPY! Or, a Report on the Evidence laid before the House of Commons, by the Select Committee appointed to inquire into the truth of the allegations of a petition presented by Mr. Cobbett, from members of the "National Union of the Working Classes" (resident in Camberwell and Walworth), in which they complained that Policemen were employed as Government Spies !- By Wm. Cobbert, M.P. for Oldham.

"This report should be attentively studied by the whole political community."—Bell's New Messenger.

"The evidence is most admirably arranged, condensed, and commented upon by Mr. Cobbett; this document ought to find a place in every public room in the kingdom."-Morning Advertiser.

" We regret we cannot give the whole of this masterly report, we must content our-selves with earnestly recommending our readers to obtain a copy for their own use."— Manchester Advertiser.

" It is a laborious, able, and certainly one of the most useful documents that has ever seen the light."-Poor Man's Guardian.

London: CLEAVE, No. 1, Shoe-lane, (one oor from Fleet-street); J. WATSON, 33, Windmill-street, Finsbury-square; and all the agents of the Register in Town and Country.

CHEAP CLOTHING!!

SWAIN AND CO., Tailors, &c., 93, FLEET-STREET,

(Near the new opening to St. Bride's Church),

EG to present to the notice of the Police the List of Prices which they charge for Gentlemen's Clothing.

FOR CASH ONLY.

Later on Prince Committee	٤.	L	4
A Suit of Superfine Clothes	4	14	-
Ditto, Black or Blue	5	5	i
Ditto, Best Saxony	5	15	-
Cobbett's Cord (a new article)
Trowsers	1	2	t
Plain Silk Waistcoats	0	16	İ
Figured ditto ditto
Valentia ditto
Barogan Shooting Jackets
A Plain Suit of Livery	4	4	1
LADIES' HABITS AND PELISSES, an	d	Car	le

DREN'S DRESSES, equally cheap; in the minufacture of which they are not surpassed the West-end of the Town.

On the I. of September will be published, Price Two Shillings, OBBETT'S MAGAZINE; a Monthly Review of Politics, History, Science, Literature, Arts, &c. &c. Contents of the forthcoming Number: -Whigs or Toriti-Sheridan Knowles and the Edinburgh Review -Journal of the King of the Sandwich Island The Young Cacique—The Reminiscences a Voyager - The Spirit's Prophecy - Wit Wine, and Woman; a song-The Punish ment of Vice-Fine Arts-Sears' Wood Es gravings-The Police Tax - Fascination-Letter of the Earl of Northumberland to his son-The Etruscans-The Dramatic Profes sion-The Events of the Month-Critical Notices of Books, &c.

The number for August is the first of a net Volume, the present time is therefore a god opportunity for those who wish to become subscribers, taking in the Magazine.

Price 3d, or 2s. per dozes, THE RIGHTS OF THE POOR to the POOR LAWS, and the intention of the Miss ters to institute a general SYSTEM OF PO LICE.

Published at 11, Bolt-court, Fleet-street and at Effingham Wilson's, Royal for change; and may be had of all bookselleng Town and Country, without any addition charge.

Printed by William Cobbett, Johnson's court, published by him, at 11, Bolt-court, Fleet-sir